25-DAY STEEL STRIKE IS SETTLED

Hopes of Ending General Motors Strike Are High In Some Quarters

Auto Industry Hails Settlement of U. S. Steel-CIO Differences

GM DELIBERATIONS ARE ADJOURNED UNTIL TODAY

UAW Official Seeks Ap- proval of Bendix Avi- ation Walkout

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP)—Settlement of the United States Steel Corporation strike was hailed by the auto industry tonight, it looked forward to the end of the eighty-seven-day-old General Motors strike.

Spokesmen for the Ford Motor Company, whose assembly lines
have been stopped almost entirely by the shortage of steel, expressed hope they would be back to normal production "within two weeks."

Meanwhile, hopes of ending the General Motors strike— affecting 175,000 production workers—were high in some quarters following a conference today between C. E. Wilson, GM president, and R. J.
Thomas, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers.

An authoritative UAW spokesman declared "settlement of the steel strike will expedite settlement of the General Motors strike, but this may take several days."

Thomas is optimistic
R. J. Thomas said in a formal statement, "Settlement of the steel strike should mean that wage disputes in the auto industry will be settled more rapidly and that there will be early full civilian production and employment."

Special Federal Labor Mediator
James F. Dewey, who has been seeking an end of the GM strike, expressed doubt that the steel situation would have much effect on the GM dispute.

General Motors spokesmen declined comment, pending resumption of the meetings between GM and UAW officials.

Their deliberations were adjourned until tomorrow at 10 a. m.
EST. and Special Federal Mediator
James F. Dewey, asked if he believed a settlement could be effected then, replied, "It could."

On another front, UAW Secretary-Treasurer George P. Addes, today asked the union international
to approve a strike at six divisions of the Bendix Aviation Corporation which are covered by UAW contracts.

Disagree on Number Affected
Union and company officials disagreed on the number of workers immediately affected, the union setting the figure at more than 12,000,
while the company said only 8,000
of its total of 20,000 workers were involved in the dispute.

Mediator Dewey, commenting on today's GM meeting, said wages and other issues were discussed without relation to President Truman's new

Kidnap Hoax Figure Is Freed of Charge

BOSTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs.
Rose Carlan, 23, Chelsea, was freed of a charge of manslaughter
today in the death of her 6-months-old son, Ronald, who was the central figure in New England's greatest kidnap hoax
last November.

The Suffolk county grand jury returned a "no bill," automatically terminating the case.

The baby died on November 24 and four days later the mother, wife of Sailor James Carlan,
who was on duty on the West Coast, reported the child "kidnapped."

Then began the wildest hunt
in New England history. Sixteen days later, the baby's body was found stuffed under a dresser in the Carlan home.

Republicans in Senate Want More Facts on Proposed Loan to Britain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—
Eight Republican senators assailed
what they called "secrecy, double-talk and exhortation" on the proposed British loan today while a ninth, Sen. Austin, of Vermont, urged approval of the credit.

In the House, at the same time,
Rep. Stefan (R-Neb.) called for modern Paul Revere to gallop and warn that "the British are coming."

Today's speeches on the $3,750-000,000 loan followed individual expressions which congressmen have been placing in the record almost daily since President Truman's message requesting the legislation.
The views of the eight Republicans were presented in a speech by

U. S., Not Braden, Issued Blue Book, Byrnes Declares

Weight of Government Is Thrown behind Argentine Indictment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—
President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes today threw the entire weight of the United States government behind the "blue book" indictment of Argentina's military rulers.

In a move obviously designed to relieve any individual pressure on Spruille Braden, assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, Byrnes went out of his way at his noon news conference to assert that:

1. The "blue book," which charged that Argentina militarists had col-laboring with Nazi Germany during the war—was issued not by Braden but by the United States government.

2. This meant that it had been published with the full approval of the secretary of state and the president. In fact, Byrnes said, he submitted it to Mr. Truman himself.

Four hours later, President Truman said his document was published with his full approval.

Col. Juan D. Peron, Argentina presidential candidate, one of the main characters in the "blue book,"
has implied in campaign speeches
that the document was entirely Braden's work, and was issued to influence Argentina's elections scheduled for February 24.

Peron also asserted yesterday that Braden headed a vast United States espionage network operating through South America. He charged that this, Gen. John Lang, one-time United States military attaché
at Buenos Aires, had been expelled from Argentina for participating in the espionage.

Byrnes replied indirectly to these charges at this news conference,
but emphasized that he was only giving information available at the State department, and was not en-

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Dr.

pital, Brooklyn, said today that a sufferer from undulant fever at a hospital twice had experienced a temperature of 110, believed one of the highest in medical records.

He said that the victim, Sophie Sapala, 21, Duryea, Pa., a student nurse at the hospital, was recovering from her unusual experience.

Roosevelt Read Jap Notes, Said "This Means War"

Naval Officer Gives Dramatic Evidence before Harbor Probers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A young naval officer told congressional investigators today that the late President Roosevelt had looked over intercepted Japanese dispatches the night before Pearl Harbor and declared, "This means war."

The dramatic story came from Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, who testified that as a White House naval communications aide he took the dispatches to Mr. Roosevelt's second floor study at about 9:30 p. m. on December 6, 1941.

In brief, the account he gave the Senate-House committee inquiring into the December 7 Japanese attack was this:

An usher took him to the president who was sitting talking with the late Harry Hopkins, his friend

Hopkins paced back and forth nervously as the president read some fifteen typewritten pages.

Mr. Roosevelt handed the sheet over to Hopkins who read the papers and handed them back.

"The president said in substance,
I can't recall the exact words, 'This means war.'"

Hopkins Agreed
"Mr. Hopkins agreed," Schulz said, "there was a half-hour's discussion between the two men which embraced known disposition of Japanese forces, but Pearl Harbor was not mentioned nor any geographical place except Indo-China."

Nor did he hear any mention of sending additional warning messages to anyone, Schulz said.

He related that Mr. Roosevelt had remarked he believed he would talk with "Betty" and tried unsuccessfully to get Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations on the telephone.

(Stark's nickname from school days is "Betty.")

He gathered from what he heard, Schulz said, that the president was informed that Stark was at the National theater.

He quoted Mr. Roosevelt as saying he did not want Stark paged at the theater because it might cause public alarm, but would try to reach him later.

He did not know, he said, whether the president did talk later with Stark.

Deadline Is Extended (Stark has testified to the committee that he had no recollection of where he was on Saturday, December 6, but he was certain that he had had no conference with the president.)

Schulz's testimony capped a day
during which the committee:
Secured three and one half months' extension of life from Senate and House. This gives it operating authority until June 1, said
Chairman Barkley (D-Ky.) said
members were agreed they should

Nazis Gave Lethal Meal to Children, Tribunal Is Told

NUERNBERG, Feb. 15 (AP)—Nazis poisoned all the school children in the Crimean port city of Kerch, smearing poison on the lips of all who refused to eat a lethal meal of cakes and coffee, the Russian prosecution charged today at the warime trial of twenty-two former Nazi leaders.

An order by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of staff of the German high command, banning punishment of Nazis who violated Soviet women and children, was the signal that touched off the poisoning, documents submitted by the Russians charged.

As Keitel sat impassively in the defendants' dock this account was read into the court record.

"All the school children were ordered to report to school at a fixed time. After they arrived with school books under their arms they were sent out of town to a factory school, allegedly for a walk."

"There the hungry and cold children were offered hot coffee and cakes which were poisoned. Those children who didn't get coffee the Germans called to the dispensary
and smeared their lips with quick acting poison."

Kerch, a bitterly-contested city in the war, was lost by the Russians
in May, 1942, but recaptured in April, 1944.

Rudolf Hess, former Hitler deputy,
suffered a new attack of stomach
cramps at today's trial, and was removed from the court room during the tribunal's mid-afternoon recess.

This morning the Russians submitted evidence in support of charges that Hans Frank, former Nazis governor general of Poland,
butchered at least 3,000,000 Jews
during a campaign of the Jews ended
be intensified after the war ended.

Truman Declares Forrestal Initiated Pauley Nomination

Secretary of Navy Asserts Choice Was Roosevelt's;
President Defends Appointment and Says It Will Not Be Withdrawn

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—
President Truman, vehemently defending his nomination of Edwin W.
Pauley, said today that Secretary of the Navy Forrestal had initiated it and Forrestal quickly asserted the choice was President Roosevelt's.

Forrestal added that he had told
Mr. Truman of the late president's proposal and had said "I would be agreeable" to Pauley's nomination.

The navy secretary issued a statement of his position toward Pauley about three hours after Mr.
Truman brought him into the picture by his remarks at a news conference.

Mr. Truman, after brushing aside
the objections of former Secretary of the Interior Ickes as a political argument, declared that the initiative for the Pauley nomination came from the navy secretary. He said Forrestal recommended Pauley
on November and told him the late Mr. Roosevelt had planned to put the oil man in the Navy department.

Mr. Truman said that Ickes did not dare to impugn his integrity and emphasized anew that the Pauley nomination would not be withdrawn.

The president commented that Ickes himself had praised Pauley highly in the past and that his outspoken now was just a political argument.

And speaking of politics, Mr.
Truman said that he was so busy trying to get through 1946 that he had not given a thought to the presidential election year of 1948.

Will he run? When asked around, he told the questioners, he would make his decision.

"Dark" Flour Order Will Be Effective March 1

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Agriculture department announced today the government's wheat conservation order requiring millers to produce "dark" flour will become effective March 1.

The order is one of the wheat-saving measures announced by President Truman last week to cut consumption of the grain at home
and so that shipments abroad can be increased. The order prohibits millers from producing any flour on or after March 1 that consists of less than eighty per cent, by weight, of the cleaned wheat from which the flour is produced. Present white flour consists of about seventy-two per cent of the weight.

East Braces for Frigid Wave

(By The Associated Press)
The northeastern part of the nation braced itself last (Friday) night for sub-zero weather as the Midwest recovered rapidly from a cold snap that tumbled temperatures to levels as low as 23 below.

Four deaths in the Buffalo, N.
Y., area were attributed to a blizzard.

Chicago forecasters said cold
warnings were issued in the East, predicting these minimums by early today: Eastern New York, zero to 10 below; Pennsylvania, 5 above to zero; Delaware and New Jersey, 10 above to zero.

The eastward-moving cold air prevented the usual rise in daytime temperatures in many places in the East. For the most part precipitation was confined to snow squalls
and fair weather prevailed over much of the nation.

In the Midwest the mercury rose quickly from yesterday morning's low marks. Bemidji, Minn., which reported 23 below had recovered to 3 above by noon.

Forecasters said the warmer Midwest weather wouldn't bring long,
however, with another plunge of the mercury due by Saturday night,
but less severe this time.

Russia, Poland And Egypt Back Levant Demand

Egyptian Delegate Says
Each State Must Insure Its Security

By JOHN A. PARRIS
LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Egypt,
Russia and Poland tonight supported the Levantine demand for the withdrawal of British and French troops from Syria and Lebanon, and the Egyptian delegate declared that if forty-six nations were going to follow the Big Five "we might as well liquidate" the United Nations.

The Egyptian, Mamdouh Riaz,
spoke just before the United Nations Security Council adjourned an almost day-long hearing on the Syrian and Lebanese charges that presence of British and French troops in their countries was a "violation" of their sovereignty and "a permanent menace" in internal affairs.

Lebanon Minister Opens Debate
Riaz told the Security Council that each state had the responsibility of insuring its own security.
He argued that neither Britain nor France could assume that task in Lebanon and Syria against the will of those governments.

"If forty-six nations are going to follow five," he cried, "we might as well liquidate this organization and leave the security of the world in the hands of the Big Five."

A few minutes earlier Foreign Minister Beelo Van Kleffens, of the Netherlands, proposed that the council merely take note of all statements made in the case, with the understanding that British-French troops would withdraw "at not distant date."

Foreign Minister Hamid Bey Frangie, of Lebanon, opened the debate with a statement that the presence of British-French troops
was "not dictated by military necessity, nor by agreement of governments, nor by international accord."

Paris Bey El Khoury, Syrian delegate, said that since the end of the war "we have made constant representations for the simultaneous withdrawal but we have waited in vain."

Immediately, Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, asked the council to "have confidence" in France and Britain alone to solve the situation.

He denied the Levantine charges that the British-French troops were a menace to peace.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, speaking for Britain, said it was his government's desire to withdraw the British troops "at the earliest possible moment."

He said in his stormy letter of resignation that he had told the president after a cabinet meeting that he had been called to testify on Pauley before the Senate Naval committee and that Mr. Truman told him to tell the truth but "be gentle" with Pauley. Asked about this today, Mr. Truman said he had told Ickes then to tell the truth and be kind to Pauley.

One reporter wanted to know whether Mr. Truman thought Ickes was trying to impugn his integrity.
The president said Ickes did not dare.

Would Mr. Truman withdraw Pauley's nomination?
He would not.

Army Conducts Search For Transport Plane Carrying 20 Persons

MANILA, Saturday, Feb. 16 (AP)—
Army authorities disclosed today that a widespread search has been under way for a C-47 transport plane, carrying nine USO troupers among twenty persons aboard. They said the plane apparently crashed
at sea during bad weather February 5.

Others aboard included seven military personnel and four crew members. The plane was flying from Panay to Cebu.

The USO troupers were members of the "Merry Madcaps" which had been performing for service audiences in the Southwest Pacific since December 3, 1945.

Army authorities said the plane was operated by the Philippine army. It had taken off from Iloilo on Panay for Cebu.

The second emergency rescue squadron of the Thirtieth army air force on Luzon has been ordered to search land and water areas
for the missing craft.

Of the national pool of some 1-250,000 men between 18 and 25 inclusive who have been turned down
for the draft, only a small percentage has been rated heretofore as qualified for limited service. Estimates range downward to as low as five per cent which would be only about 62,000.

Agreement, Announced By John Snyder, Calls For 18 1-2 Cent Boost

Pact Involves Directly Only 130,000 U. S. Steel Employes but Opens Way for Early Return to Work throughout Vital Industry; U. S. Steel Strike Will End Next Monday when Pay Increase Starts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—
Settlement of the twenty-five-day strike at the United States Steel Corporation was announced tonight, opening the way for an early return to work throughout the vital industry.

Reconversion Director John
W. Snyder announced the "Big Steel" agreement on behalf of President Truman.

The settlement was on the basis of an hourly wage increase averaging eighteen and one-half cents an hour which the president had recommended.

A statement from Benjamin F.
Fairless, president of United States Steel, said the wage increase is the largest in the industry's history and will amount to about $32 per employee for each full month of work.

The agreement involves specifically some 130,000 workers of United States Steel. But CIO President
Philip Murray said collective bargaining will start tomorrow with the rest of the steel companies. There are 750,000 CIO steel workers on strike throughout the industry.

The strike at United States Steel is to end at 12:01 a. m., Monday, February 18. It began at the same hour on January 21.

The pay increase will begin Monday.

Retrospective Issue Is Compromised
The retrospective pay issue, on which negotiations had started at the last moment, was compromised.
The steel workers will receive nine and one-quarter cents an hour increase for the period between January 1 and January 21, when the strike began.

The union had asked that the full increase be retrospective to January 1, when the government first moved into the wage dispute by appointing a fact-finding board.

President Truman, who suggested the eighteen and one-half cent settlement as a compromise four days before the strike began, had suggested the January 1 retrospective date.

The United States Steel Corporation had wanted to make the increase retrospective on January 21,
the date when the plants were shut down.

The announcement of the end of the strike came dramatically in the middle of a hearing at 10 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

White House Press Secretary
Charles D. Clarke met newsmen in the lobby and escorted them to the steel corporation's suite, where settlement negotiations had been going on for the past two weeks.

There, Reconversion Director
Snyder, Secretary of Labor Schwenbecker, and President Assistant John W. Snyder were waiting with company and union officials.

Auto Industry Hails Settlement of U. S. Steel-CIO Differences

UAW Official Seeks Approval of Bendix Aviation Walkout

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP)—Settlement of the United States Steel Corporation strike was hailed by the auto industry tonight, as it looked forward to the end of the eighty-seven-day-old General Motors strike.

Spokesmen for the Ford Motor Company, whose assembly lines have been stopped almost entirely by the shortage of steel, expressed hope they would be back to normal production "within two weeks."

Meanwhile, hopes of ending the General Motors strike— affecting 155,000 production workers—were high in some quarters following a conference today between C. E. Wilson, GM president, and R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers.

An authoritative UAW spokesman declared an expedite settlement of the General Motors strike, but this may take several days.

Thomas Is Optimistic

R. J. Thomas said in a formal statement, "Settlement of the steel strike should mean that wage disputes in the industries depend upon steel should be settled more rapidly and will mean early full civilian production and employment."

Special Federal Labor Mediator James F. Dewey, who has been seeking an end of the GM strike, expressed doubt that the steel situation would have much effect on the GM dispute.

General Motors spokesmen declined comment, pending resumption of the meetings between GM and UAW officials.

Their deliberations were adjourned until tomorrow (10 a. m. EST) and Special Federal Mediator James F. Dewey, asked if he believed a settlement could be effected, then replied, "It could."

On another front, UAW Secretary-Treasurer George P. Addes, today asked the union international to approve a strike at six divisions of the Bendix Aviation Corporation which are covered by UAW contracts.

Disagree on Number Affected

Union and company officials disagreed on the number of workers immediately affected, the union setting the figure at more than 12,000, while the company said only 8,000 of its total of 20,000 workers were involved in the dispute.

Mediator Dewey, commenting on today's GM meeting, said wages and other issues were discussed without today's meeting. Truman's new (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

Kidnap Hoax Figure Is Freed of Charge

BOSTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Rose Carlan, 23, Chelsea, was freed of a charge of manslaughter today in the death of her 6-month-old son, Ronald, who was the central figure in New England's greatest kidnap hoax last November.

The Suffolk county grand jury returned a "no bill," automatically terminating the case.

The baby died on November 24 and was found in the mother's arms of Sallor James Carlan, who was on duty on the West Coast, reported the child "kidnaped."

Then began the wildest hunt in New England history. Sixteen days later the baby's body was found stuffed under a dresser in the Carlan home.

Republicans in Senate Want More Facts on Proposed Loan to Britain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Eight Republican senators assailed what they called "secrecy, double-talk and exhortation" on the proposed British loan today while a ninth, Sen. Austin, of Vermont, urged approval of the credit.

In the House, at the same time, Rep. Stefan (R-Neb.) called for a modern Paul Revere to gallop and warn that "the British are coming."

Today's speeches on the $3,750,000,000 loan followed individual expressions which congressmen have been placing in the record almost daily since President Truman's message requesting the legislation.

The views of the eight Republicans were presented in a speech by one of them, Sen. Bridges, of New Hampshire, who acted as spokesman.

Bridges demanded that the administration furnish congress "hard facts" as to all past and present foreign loans and commitments, an estimate as to how much will be repaid and the tax burden involved, what the public debt will be and what tariff changes are proposed.

He said that the issue "goes to the heart of the government's keeping us in the dark and confused" and called this "a scandal."

HITS PERON TYRANNY

EVIDENCE in the United States memorandum against Argentina's Peron government was sifted from 600 tons of documents and records discovered in cellars and homes all over Germany, said Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden (above), addressing a luncheon meeting in New York. The Peron regime was pro-Nazi in war, he said, and even now is giving refuge to Nazi interests and persons.

U. S., Not Braden, Issued Blue Book, Byrnes Declares

Weight of Government Is Thrown behind Argentine Indictment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes today threw the entire weight of the United States government behind the "blue book" indictment of Argentina's military rulers.

In a move obviously designed to relieve any individual pressure on Spruille Braden, assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, Byrnes went out of his way at his noon news conference to assert that:

1. The "blue book"—which charged that Argentina militarists had collaborated with Nazi Germany during the war—was issued not by Braden but by the United States government.

2. This meant that it had been published with the full approval of the secretary of state and the president. In fact, Byrnes said, he submitted it to Mr. Truman himself.

Four hours later, President Truman said the document was published with his full approval.

Col. Juan D. Peron, Argentina's presidential candidate, one of the main characters in the "blue book," has implied in campaign speeches that the document was entirely Braden's handiwork, and was issued to influence Argentine national elections scheduled for February 24.

Peron also asserted yesterday that Braden headed a vast United States espionage network operating through South America. He declared that Brig. Gen. John Lang, one-time United States military attaché at Buenos Aires, had been expelled from Argentina for participating in the espionage.

Byrnes replied indirectly to these charges at this news conference, but emphasized that he was only giving information available at the State department and was not endorsing it. (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

Undulant Fever Sufferer Has Temperature of 110

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Dr. Moritz Wilchfort, of Bushwick hospital, Brooklyn, said today that a sufferer from undulant fever at the hospital twice had experienced a temperature of 110, believed one of the highest in medical records.

He said that the victim, Sophie Sapala, 21, Duryea, Pa., a student nurse at the hospital, was recovering from her unusual experience, December 29 and January 26, with the aid of streptomycin, a rare new drug.

Roosevelt Read Jap Notes, Said "This Means War"

Naval Officer Gives Dramatic Evidence before Harbor Probers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A young naval officer told congressional investigators today that the late President Roosevelt had looked over intercepted Japanese dispatches the night before Pearl Harbor and declared, "This means war."

The dramatic story came from Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, who testified that as a White House naval communications aide he took the dispatches to Mr. Roosevelt's second floor study at about 9:30 p. m. on December 6, 1941.

In brief, the account he gave the Senate-House committee inquiring into the December 7 Japanese attack was this:

An usher took him to the president who was sitting talking with the late Harry Hopkins, his friend and confidant. The usher left.

Hopkins paced back and forth nervously as the president read some fifteen typewritten pages.

Mr. Roosevelt handed the sheaf over to Hopkins who read the papers and handed them back.

"The president said in substance, 'I can't read the exact words, 'This means war.'"

Hopkins Agreed

"Mr. Hopkins agreed," Schulz said there was a half-hour discussion between the two men which embraced known disposition of Japanese forces, but Pearl Harbor was not mentioned nor any geographical place except Indo-China.

Nor did he hear any mention of sending additional warning messages to anyone, Schulz said.

He related that Mr. Roosevelt had remarked he believed he would talk to "Betty" and tried unsuccessfully to get Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations on the telephone.

(Stark's nickname from school days is "Betty.")

He gathered from what he heard, Schulz said, that the president was informed that Stark was at the National theater.

He quoted Mr. Roosevelt as saying he did not want Stark paged at the theater because it might cause public alarm, but would try to reach him later.

He did not know, he said, whether the president did talk later with Stark.

Deadline Is Extended

(Stark has testified to the committee that he had no recollection of where he was on Saturday, December 6, but he was certain that he had had no conference with the president.)

Schulz's testimony capped a day during which the committee heard testimony of three and one-half months' extension of time from Senate and House. This gives it operating authority until June 1, but Chairman Barkley (D-Ky.) said members were agreed they should wind up hearings by next Wednesday.

Nazis Gave Lethal Meal to Children, Tribunal Is Told

NUERNBERG, Feb. 15 (AP)—Nazis poisoned all the school children in the Crimean port city of Kerch, smearing poison on the lips of all who refused to eat a lethal meal of cakes and coffee, the Russian prosecution charged today at the war crime trial of twenty-two former Nazi leaders.

An order by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of staff of the German high command, banning punishment of Nazis who violated Soviet women and children, was the signal that touched off the poisoning, documents submitted by the Russians charged.

As Keitel sat impassively in the defendants' dock this account was read into the court record:

"All the school children were ordered to report to school at a fixed time. After they arrived with school books under their arms they were sent out of town to a factory school, allegedly for a walk."

"The hungry and cold children were offered hot coffee and cakes which were poisoned. Those children who didn't get coffee the Germans called to the dispensary and smeared their lips with quick acting poison."

Kerch, a bitterly-contested city in the war, was lost by the Russians in May, 1942, but recaptured in April, 1944.

Rudolf Hess, former Hitler deputy, suffered a new attack of stomach cramps at today's trial, and was removed from the court room during the tribunal's mid-afternoon recess.

This morning the Russians submitted evidence in support of charges that Hans Frank, former Nazi governor general of Poland, butchered at least 3,000,000 Jews and pledged that a campaign of annihilation against the Jews would be intensified after the war ended.

Frank showed no emotion as the Russians quoted from a declaration of intent to exterminate the Jews.

Secretary of Navy Asserts Choice Was Roosevelt's; President Defends Appointment and Says It Will Not Be Withdrawn

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Truman, vehemently defending his nomination of Edwin W. Pauley, said today that Secretary of the Navy Forrestal had initiated the nomination of Pauley.

Forrestal added that he had told Mr. Truman of the late president's proposal and had said "I would be agreeable" to Pauley's nomination.

The navy secretary issued a statement of his position toward Pauley about three hours after Mr. Truman brought him into the picture with his remarks at a news conference.

Mr. Truman, after brushing aside the objections of former Secretary of the Interior Ickes as a political argument, declared that the initiative for the Pauley nomination came from the navy secretary.

He said Forrestal recommended Pauley for undersecretary last October, and told him the late president had planned to put the man in the Navy department.

Mr. Truman said that Ickes did not dare to impugn his integrity and emphasized anew that the Pauley nomination would not be withdrawn.

The president commented that Ickes himself had praised Pauley highly in the past and that his outcry now was just a political argument.

And speaking of politics, Mr. Truman said that he was so busy trying to get through 1946 that he had not given a thought to the presidential election year of 1948.

Will he run? When 1948 comes around, he told the questioners, he would make his decision.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal took the initiative in advancing Pauley for undersecretary of the navy last October or November, Mr. Truman disclosed.

Forrestal told Mr. Truman today that the late president Roosevelt had been planning to appoint Pauley.

As for Ickes' attitude toward Pauley, Mr. Truman said that in the only conversation he ever had with his departing secretary of the interior about the oil man, Ickes complimented Pauley highly as an able public servant.

This was last July, when Ickes was planning to quit, the president said.

Ickes said in his stormy letter of resignation that he had told the president after a cabinet meeting that he had been called to testify on Pauley before the Senate Naval committee and that Mr. Truman told him to tell the truth but "be gentle" with Pauley. Asked about this today, Mr. Truman said he had told Ickes then to tell the truth and be kind to Pauley.

One reporter wanted to know whether Mr. Truman thought Ickes was trying to impugn his integrity. The president said Ickes did not dare.

MANILA, Saturday, Feb. 16 (AP)—Army authorities disclosed today that a widespread search has been under way for a C-47 transport plane, carrying nine USO trouper members among twenty persons aboard. They said the plane apparently crashed at sea during bad weather February 5.

Others aboard included seven military personnel and four crew members. The plane was flying from Panay to Cebu.

The USO trouper members were members of the "Merry Madcaps" which had been performing for service audiences in the Southwest Pacific since December 3, 1945.

Russia, Poland And Egypt Back Levant Demand

Egyptian Delegate Says Each State Must Insure Its Security

By JOHN A. PARRIS

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Egypt, Russia and Poland tonight supported the Levantine demand for the withdrawal of British and French troops from Syria and Lebanon, and the Egyptian delegate declared that if forty-six nations were going to follow the Big Five "we might as well liquidate" the United Nations.

The Egyptian, Mamdouh Riaz, spoke just before the United Nations Security Council adjourned an almost day-long hearing on the Syrian and Lebanese charges that the presence of British and French troops in their countries was a "violation" of their sovereignty and a "permanent menace" in internal affairs.

Lebanon Minister Opens Debate

Riaz told the Security Council that each state had the responsibility of insuring its own security. He argued that neither Britain nor France could assume that task in Lebanon and Syria against the will of those governments.

"If forty-six nations are going to follow five," he cried, "we might as well liquidate this organization and leave the security of the world in the hands of the Big Five."

A few minutes earlier Foreign Minister Eelco Van Kleffens, of the Netherlands, proposed that the council merely take note of all statements made in the case, with the understanding that British-French troops would withdraw "at not distant date."

Foreign Minister Hamid Bey Frangie, of Lebanon, opened the debate with a statement that the presence of British-French troops was "not dictated by military necessity, nor by agreement of governments, nor by international accord."

Levant Charge Is Denied

Paris Bey El Khoury, Syrian delegate, said that since the end of the war "we have made constant representations for the simultaneous withdrawal but we have waited in vain."

Immediately, Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, asked the council to "have confidence" in France and Britain alone to solve the situation.

He denied the Levantine charges that the British-French troops were a menace to peace.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, speaking for Britain, said it was his government's desire to withdraw the British troops "at the earliest possible moment."

Draft Boards Are Ordered To Comb Ranks of Rejects

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Draft boards received orders today to comb over rejects to meet increased army demands for replacements.

Preliminary estimates suggested, however, that even with physical standards lowered to an "absolute minimum" Selective Service may meet difficulties in supplying an extra 75,000 recruits whom the War department wants by April.

Reports from several local boards in the national capital indicated that men rated qualified for limited service are too few to meet materially larger quotas, officials said.

Estimates on a national basis are expected to require several more days.

Responding to a War department demand that the draft fill its quota and also make up an accumulated deficit of 75,000 men, Selective Service headquarters directed local boards to review their lists of 4-Fs and two other deferred classes and make available for those who are deemed fit for limited military duty.

The 4-F class is composed of those previously rejected as below physical standards. Also to be reviewed are records of men in class 2-A, composed of those who if not deferred because of their civilian occupation would be classed as 4-F, and class 2-CL consisting of farm workers who otherwise would be in 4-F.

Of the national pool of some 1,250,000 men between 18 and 25, only 100,000 have been turned down for the draft, only a small percentage has been rated heretofore as qualified for limited service. Estimates range downward to as low as five per cent which would be only about 62,000.

Dynamic Cap Blast Is Fatal to Soldier

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., Feb. 15 (AP)—Injuries suffered in the premature explosion of several dynamite caps on the artillery range proved fatal today for Sgt. William F. Wiedermann, Essex, Md., the Meade public relations office announced.

Army authorities said the explosion occurred during the disposal of explosives.

Pact Involves Directly Only 130,000 U. S. Steel Employees but Opens Way for Early Return to Work throughout Vital Industry; U. S. Steel Strike Will End Next Monday when Pay Increase Starts

TO SEE PRESIDENT

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Settlement of the twenty-five-day strike at the United States Steel Corporation was announced tonight, opening the way for an early return to work throughout the vital industry.

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder announced the "Big Steel" agreement on behalf of President Truman.

The settlement was on the basis of an hourly wage increase averaging eighteen and one-half cents an hour which the president had recommended.

A statement from Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel, said the wage increase is the largest in the industry's history and will amount to about $32 per employee for each full month of work.

The agreement involves specifically some 130,000 workers of United States Steel. But CIO President Philip Murray said collective bargaining will start tomorrow with the rest of the steel companies. There are 750,000 CIO steel workers on strike throughout the industry.

The strike at United States Steel is to end at 12:01 a. m. Monday, February 18. It began at the same hour on January 23.

The pay increase will begin Monday.

Retroactive Issue Is Compromised

The retroactive pay issue, on which negotiations had stalled at the last moment, was compromised. The steel workers will receive nine and one-quarter cents an hour increase for the period between January 1 and January 21, when the strike began.

The union had asked that the full increase be retroactive to January 1, when the government first moved into the wage dispute by appointing a fact-finding board.

President Truman, who suggested the eighteen and one-half cent settlement as a compromise four days before the strike began, had suggested the January 1 retroactive date.

The United States Steel Corporation had wanted to make the increase retroactive on January 21, the date when the plants were shut down.

The announcement of the end of the strike came dramatically in the Carlton hotel at 10 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross met newsmen in the lobby and escorted them to the steel corporation's suite, where secret negotiations had been going on for the past two weeks.

There, Reconversion Director Snyder, Secretary of Labor Schweitzer, and Presidential Assistant John R. Steiman were waiting with company and union officials.

"Moving Day" for Resigned Interior Secretary May Last More than Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Officially Harold L. Ickes put in his last day as secretary of the interior today. Unofficially he'll be around quite a while yet.

One of his helpers guessed that it will take from ten to twelve days for him to clear out his personal papers.

"You'd be amazed," this helper told a reporter, "at how much stuff a cabinet member can collect in almost thirteen years."

There are, for example, forty filing cabinets, crammed with Ickes' personal belongings.

These include almost 500 Ickes speeches and each speech provokes a presidential "Truman."

Merchant Marine Service Doesn't Count with Army

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My son served twenty-two months in the merchant marine, then resigned and was drafted into the army. Will he be given credit for the time served in the maritime service?

(MRS.) J. Y.

The merchant marine is not considered an armed service, as the merchant ships are armed by the United States Navy. Therefore, time served in the merchant marine is not counted as service in the army and no credit is given.

Mustering-out Pay Not Lost

Dear Miss Fairfax:
I've heard that all married men with three or more children may be released from the army upon their own request. If my husband asks for a discharge will he lose his mustering-out pay?

(MRS.) A. J. M.

No discharge benefits or aids derived under GI Bill of Rights are lost to a man honorably discharged because he has three children. Requests to be released under such circumstances are honored as much as a release on points or years of service.

Remarriage, Allowance Payments

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My wife divorced me some time ago and her allowance was discontinued. However, monthly payments were sent to our two children. She intends to remarry and I would like to know if this will affect the children's allowance.

SOLDIER

No. Your wife's remarriage will not result in the discontinuance of allowance payments to the children as long as you remain in the army on active duty in a pay status.

Number Not Determined

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My husband has been "missing" over the Admiralty Islands since June, 1944, and up to now I've heard nothing more. Can you tell me if they have gone in on those islands and found all of our boys? I've been told that boys are hospitalized before revealing their names.

(MRS.) C. E. F.

The number of soldiers found in a search of the Admiralty Islands has not been determined to date. In most, if not all cases, members of the military in the different theaters are taken to hospitals for treatment before their families are notified, as the primary mission at that time is to save their lives. You may be certain that if you have not been notified, your husband is not listed as deceased by the War department.

Band Was Deactivated

Dear Miss Fairfax:
A friend of mine who was with the Seven Hundred and Fourth AAF band has not been heard from for some time. Can you tell me where this band is now stationed?

E. L. M.

The Seven Hundred and Fourth AAF band was rendered inactive on December 1, 1945, in LeHavre, France. Whereabouts of its personnel are unknown.

Economic Relief
Tardy and Costly

STANDING against any recommendation due President Truman for the shake-up in the economic command at Washington and the formulation of a new higher wage-price policy is the offsetting fact that something of the kind should have been done four months ago in order to avert the chaos and cost that have resulted from floundering inaction and the stubborn insistence upon trying to work out an economic impossibility of boosting wages without making provision for providing the pay therefore.

It has been a costly period, not only in the direct losses in wages suffered by the idle hundreds of thousands of strikers, but in added millions upon millions lost to industry and its numerous ramifications of allied businesses through the stagnation of the recovery period. It can be granted, however, that the corrective effort is better late than never, and for awhile it looked as if it were to come too late.

It remains to be seen how far the immediate price relief growing out of wage boosts will be permitted under the policy of holding them down conservatively, but the president has agreed that it must be sufficient to assure profitable operation and that no industry is to be placed in a position of hardship, in which case such industry may apply at once for relief limited to the 1936-39 profit rate level.

Congressmen generally see an inflation threat in the new wage-price policy, and undoubtedly it is there. They hope generally as the informed public unquestionably does, that the general advance can be kept under control at the new levels, albeit some are dubious about that. If, however, full production of goods and services is not maintained, the general advance can be kept under control at the new levels, albeit some are dubious about that.

A Good Bargain
For the Reds

IF the Soviet-American arrangement made at the Yalta conference is a fair sample of Franklin D. Roosevelt's generosity, then all the people of the United States will fervently hope that Secretary Byrnes is 100 per cent correct in his statement that no record exists of any other secret agreements.

The Yalta pact was bad not only because of the lands and privileges were tossed into Russia's lap but because of the brazen manner in which the Big Three violated the solemn declaration in the Atlantic Charter that none of them would seek territorial aggrandizement.

Furthermore, the belated announcement that a bargain of this sort was effected shows how insincere were Mr. Roosevelt's frequent protestations that the American public had been informed at the time of everything that was done at Yalta.

As the State department now reveals it, Russia was to declare war on Japan two or three months after Germany's surrender. In return for this promise, it would receive outright possession of the Kurile islands and of Sakhalin as well as highly important commercial and economic rights in Manchuria. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill further agreed that "these claims of the Soviet Union shall be unquestionably fulfilled after Japan has been defeated."

In view of the small part which Russia played in the conquest of Japan, nobody can ever say that it did not strike a good trade at the Yalta Conference.

Plea for Artistic Talent Is Timely

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE have grown so accustomed to depending on Broadway, Hollywood and "soap operas" to set the standards of their artistic taste that community life has practically disappeared in this country. Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of Bennington College, Bennington, Vermont, recently told the National Recreation Congress at Atlantic City.

Dr. Jones said he did not wish to attack commercialized amusements, but asked for a rebirth of artistic and cultural activities in America through cultural decentralization and a return to the local community. He said he felt it was time to recognize the basic conception of the importance of creative activity in education.

True artists or the producers who bring their work before the public need not be concerned lest the plans of Dr. Jones should be carried out. His proposals would serve to find and develop artistic talent in those areas that have been neglected and to foster an appreciation of art in those who lacked both it and talent as well.

In a country so tremendous in size and population as America, a country of such diverse backgrounds, traditions and customs, there must be a rebirth of artistic and cultural activities in America through cultural decentralization and a return to the local community. He said he felt it was time to recognize the basic conception of the importance of creative activity in education.

So it might be well for those interested to ponder a bit over the suggestions of Dr. Jones. America is teeming with energy and everyone possessing talent ought to have some means of developing it. Contests might offer a good beginning if some townsmen in each locality were willing to offer a prize worth striving at. These could be developed into into-community projects and contests.

Perhaps the easiest way to start is to enlist children in the work. That method results in arousing the interests of parents and older brothers and sisters. If these projects were undertaken universally and enthusiastically, America could do a great deal not only to develop the artistic talent of its people, but to instill a love of beauty which would reveal itself later in all realms of rural and urban life.

Demand for beauty can reward art and industry, which in many instances are divorced today. If Dr. Jones's plans were carried out, America the Beautiful might really become beautiful.

Wrist Radios
A Possibility

PERIODICALLY newspaper readers learn about some war-developed scientific marvel which can be translated into peacetime usefulness. The proximity fuse is the latest.

The proximity fuse, of course, was a tiny radio fitted into the nose of an artillery shell. It caused the shell to explode when it got within a certain distance of its target. It was one of the most important of America's secret weapons.

The proximity fuse in peacetime won't blow up anything, but according to Dr. Cleo Burnett, of the National Bureau of Standards, it will permit the manufacture of radio sets no bigger than a package of cigarettes but producing reception equal to that of the usual table model radio.

Without going into technical details, it may be said that the tiny radio sets of the future will have their wiring stenciled in thin silver lines on a flat plate instead of the copper wiring system now in use. There will be few than an inch long. Tiny loud speakers have been developed.

The possibilities of this radio development are fascinating. Who doesn't eagerly await the day when America is a nation of people completely wired for sound?

A Theory That Doesn't Square

CONSIDERING the state in which the nation has been plunged, it is easy to agree with President Truman's statement that "this is a place (meaning the White House) where you never lack for action and where there is always a crisis just around the corner." But there is not unanimity of opinion with respect to his further declaration that "the next day that crisis is passed and it's just like yesterday's newspaper."

The comfortable theory, apparently held by Mr. Truman, that all is well in the United States, or if it is not well today will be well tomorrow, simply does not square with the facts. The truth is that crises not only do not solve themselves overnight, but breed other crises until the time finally arrives when the whole industrial structure shakes on its foundation.

The average American strikes nine and a quarter matches a day, according to statisticians, and the assertion makes one wonder that there are so many indicated non-smokers.

In a forthcoming movie, the heroine will drag a $35,000 fur coat behind her in the street and it remains to be seen whether this is another Hollywood custom the ladies will copy.

The Russians, we read, have taken over a German factory called the "Donaudampfschiffahrtswerk." They can have it.

INFLUENCE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Henry D. Thoreau was born in 1817 at Concord, Massachusetts. At the age of 20 he graduated from Harvard University. For a time he lived with Emerson and made himself useful in a variety of ways. But mostly he lived by his brain to work. He thought out things for himself. To show his independence of mind, and his moral courage, he refused to pay taxes to a government that allowed slavery—and he went to jail for it.

At the age of 28 he borrowed an axe from his friend Alcott, and used it to cut down some pine trees, from which he constructed a log hut at the edge of Walden Pond. Here he reviewed his life, studied the stars at night, and the flowers and moving creatures by day. He dreamed, noted the ever-changing moods of Walden Pond, and gathered together the elements that later went into his famous book, "Walden," a classic of beauty and understanding.

Thoreau lived in his hut for two years, from 1845. "Walden" was published in 1854. Previously his "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers" was published at his own expense. Out of a total of a thousand copies, only a few hundred were sold, and they were bought by his later admirers. Today a single copy is a collector's treasure!

It was those two years at Walden Pond, however, that shaped Thoreau's entire life. He organized his mind, and set him apart. Only two books of his were published in his lifetime, but his published journals are among the richest of all the intellectual mines in a world of rich literature. He died in his forty-fifth year, a comparatively young man. During his final illness someone asked him if he had made his peace with God. His reply was: "We have never quarreled."

It is nearing a hundred years since Thoreau died, yet his influence upon the thought of the world increases year by year, as his published thoughts are read and digested. He stated that "most of the ways by which men earn a living are degrading and that men sell themselves into perpetual bondage by conforming to the traditional ways of the world."

And so this non-conformist lived as he chose, and the world knew and loved every moving creature and every growing thing, seeing in each a revelation of God and the concealed principles by which life should be guided. No one can read of Henry D. Thoreau without looking anew upon God.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bartley Crum, San Francisco, Is Slated
For Interior Secretary, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The man who heads the list as Harold Ickes's probable successor is Bartley Crum, of San Francisco, who, like Ickes, is a liberal Republican.

Crum was chairman of the Committee of Independent Republicans for Franklin Roosevelt during the 1944 campaign, which, together with Senator Earl Warren, pulled a lot of GOP ballots over to the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

During this campaign, Crum became a close friend of Democratic National Chairman Bob Hannegan who offered him several jobs as a reward for his services. One was as a member of the Federal Communications Commission, another as a federal power commissioner. Crum, however, turned them all down.

At one time last summer when it looked as if Ickes was on his way out, Hannegan also suggested Crum as secretary of the interior.

Crum's reply was: "You have too good a man in that job already."

At present, Crum is in the Near East as a member of the American-British Committee on Palestine. A relative newcomer in politics, Crum first became prominent as an original member of the Willie brain trust. He was one of Willie's chief Far Western strategists and campaign advisers, but, like Willie, for some time had leaned toward Roosevelt.

In fact, Crum was confident that he had Willie's support as a Republican candidate would have announced publicly for the late president.

Finally, during the fall of 1944, Crum himself declared publicly for Roosevelt and helped organize the Independent Republican Committee for FDR.

Not that the Far West long has wanted a westerner appointed as secretary of the interior.

Last of the Mohicans

On the morning that Harold Ickes resigned as secretary of the interior, his friend Henry Wallace, as usual, walked four miles to work. As he walked by the Interior Department, the secretary of commerce looked up and said:

"The old curmudgeon is really going this time. Once there were ten little Indians; now there's only one."

Whereupon he continued walking to work—the last of the Mohicans.

Note—Henry Wallace was sworn into the original Roosevelt cabinet as secretary of agriculture just a few minutes after Ickes. As secretary of interior, Ickes preceded him, therefore had served in the cabinet longer than Wallace—up until yesterday.

Congressional Husband

Believe it or not, but Harry Ickes, eh, powerful publisher of "Life," "Time" and "Fortune," is going to be initiated into the Ladies section of the Seventy-eighth Club, an organization made up of the wives of sophomore congressmen.

They served their first term with the Seventy-eighth Congress.

Lucy happens to be the one man in America eligible for membership in this exclusive ladies' organization—due to the fact that his wife, Clare Booth Luce, of Connecticut, came to Washington.

Member of the Seventy-eighth Congress. No other man in the United States has this distinction.

At first the ladies didn't think that Harry would want to join. However, since they, as the wives of sophomore congressmen are members, they didn't see why the husband of a sophomore congresswoman shouldn't also join the Seventy-eighth Club.

So Mrs. Joseph Harrington, attractive wife of the delegate from Hawaii and president of the club, wrote to Mr. Luce, suggesting they would like to entertain him on any Wednesday.

He replied in a charming note, saying that he would be glad to come to Washington on April 10, because, he said, "that is a Wednesday and also it's the congresswoman's birthday." So on April 10, the Seventy-eighth Club will celebrate Clare Luce's forty-third birthday and also initiate her husband into the club.

Four Months Too Late

Only a few people know it, but President Truman could have saved himself—and the nation—about four months of economic headaches over wages and prices. Inside fact is that exactly the same plan is now adopting of putting both wages and prices under Chester Bowles, was urged on Truman last October.

At that time, John Snyder asked a small group of brain-trusters to chart the future of the War Production Board, which "Cap" Krug, its then chairman, was anxious to dismantle altogether.

The economic brain-trusters—working under Bob Nathan—recommended that the remains of WPB be joined with OPA under a single head, Chester Bowles. They pointed out that production and prices were correlated problems and must be handled together.

They even proposed that Bob Hinkley, former under secretary of commerce and an A-1 man, take over production problems under Bowles, while William Batt of WPB handle prices, also under Bowles.

At that time, however, John Snyder wouldn't take Bowles. He wanted none of him. Also, industry didn't like the idea of being under a man as forthright and uncompromising as Bowles. So Snyder turned the whole thing down.

But today, after four months of inside bickering which has seriously affected the economic life of the nation exactly the same plan is being adopted. Bowles is taking over both prices, wages, and production. Weeks of wrangling and national indecision could have been saved if Harry Truman had not listened to his old friend from the Missouri National Guard, John Snyder.

Capital Chaff

One reason for the current international food shortage is that Leo

Crowley, when FEA boss, refused to heed the warning of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson last summer, when Anderson argued that FEA should help increase plantings of winter wheat, cereals and proteins in South America. The South American crop was hit by drought, but it would have been considerably larger had Anderson's advice been heeded.

Senator Tommy Hart, as secretary of agriculture just a few minutes after Ickes. As secretary of interior, Ickes preceded him, therefore had served in the cabinet longer than Wallace—up until yesterday.

Candidacy Is Seen
In Truman's Acts
On Voting Groups

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President Truman may be finding the job of chief executive irksome, but he has the responsibility of service till January 20, 1949, and that's a long way off.

The turbulence in the economic situation has now been supplemented by turbulence in the political situation, and it would appear that Mr. Truman will find it increasingly difficult to avoid making decisions that will antagonize this or that group of voters.

For a man who is reported to be disinclined to run for re-election, the president shows an amazing concern for the political sensibilities of many powerful voting groups. Indeed, if Mr. Truman really doesn't intend to run as a candidate to succeed himself, it would seem that he has an unparalleled opportunity for the exercise of a leadership which in the end would bring a nationwide demand for his continuance in office.

Mr. Truman has not been in the presidency long enough to appreciate the scope of his power. He does not realize that he has authority to command greater respect for the government than has recently been bestowed on that institution by various groups.

Prosecution Pends

Thus, while the tugboat strike has been settled, the government of the United States still has the responsibility of prosecuting those individuals who caused the tugboat employees to stay out on strike after the government had seized the tugboat companies. The law is specific, and Mr. Truman missed an opportunity to uphold the majesty of the law when he allowed the attorney general to ignore the happenings in New York after the seizure.

As the law is written, the mere calling of a union meeting is unlawful once the government has seized the facilities of any employer. In any strike if that union meeting discusses in any way the question of resisting the government by concerted action of the employees. The workers have a right as individuals to decide for themselves whether they will work under government auspices; but their decisions cannot be made in collaboration with others or as the result of any steps taken by union leaders.

Seizure Power Flouted

The whole power of seizure has been flouted in the tugboat strike and the chance to set an example by arresting those who violated the Smith-Connally law has been lost.

The president has shown hesitancy to assert his powers. What ever may be said concerning the wisdom of governmental action by his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt never faltered. He had the courage to act and make decisions. He did not fail to enforce the Smith-Connally law against those coal leaders of certain coal mining unions who flouted the government after the mines were seized. Mr. Truman may not have any political ambitions. He may be content to be a one-term president. His political lieutenants would advise against any pronouncement by him at this time and they would hope that he might change his mind. But if he does not care what the pressure groups think and is willing to do what he feels is right, irrespective of what the pressure groups think, he may be lost for a 1948 presidential contest, then he certainly should be adopting a vigorous course in protecting the public interest now. He would have everything to gain and nothing to lose by such a policy. He would gain the respect of all thoughtful citizens irrespective of party, and the odd thing to contemplate is that maybe he would increase his popularity to the point where he could not possibly lose the election.

Coolidge Case Is Recalled

The courageous course of Calvin Coolidge in 1919 in quelling the police strike in Boston electrified the country and gave him nationwide applause which led to his nomination for the vice presidency at the 1920 national convention by the Republicans.

Mr. Truman is not acting like a president who has eschewed political ambition. He is behaving as if he feared to lose any voting group at all and as if the thing he most wanted was to be re-nominated. As a consequence, he is showing a conspicuous weakness which is being talked about from coast to coast and which is giving the left-wingers encouragement that they may have a chance to nominate Henry Wallace.

There is nothing wrong with the desire of a president to succeed himself for one more term, but there is everything wrong with his inclination to get either the nomination or the election by avoiding clashes with powerful economic groups while the public interest suffers.

Ickes's Contention About Pauley Is Seen Having Basis

By MARK SULLIVAN

After 2,000 words of Ickes's resignation, and an hour of press conference, and a quarter-hour on the radio, and much collateral explosion, and still more commotion ensuing, after all that, one feels that the public asks little Peterkin's question in Southey's poem, "What does it all mean?" And that a commentator ought to have a better answer than old Casper's: "Why that I cannot tell."

This commentator has some impressions, not all going into the same direction. Mr. Ickes sincerely thinks that a man, Mr. Pauley, associated with the oil industry, ought not to be under-secretary of the Navy, and prospective secretary, because the navy has an immense public interest in oil. For that contention there is much basis. That Mr. Ickes should act on this conviction is consistent with the whole of his long career; he is a reformer in politics in the old sense, and a true sense. That he should take advantage of an opportunity to make his resignation explosive is likewise consistent with his career; he has always understood the value of timing and drama.

There is a surmise that Mr. Ickes, like other New Dealers, would like to hold Mr. Truman to the New Deal, and to President Roosevelt's policies; and, to that end, would like to prevent him from taking business men and conservatives into his official family. This is true as to left-wingers, and as to left-wingers, and habitually acts for himself rather than for any group. Finally, there is the uniqueness of the event, making it dramatic.

As bearing on the future, there are public matters afoot more pregnant than Mr. Ickes's resignation. About these, the present writer, for two weeks beginning next week, will be writing. He refrains from saying he has earned a vacation or needs one. He has been invited to go fishing in southern waters and he is going. Until the forsythia blooms again in Washington, or by the calendar March 4, so long!

Economic Relief Tardy and Costly

STANDING against any command at Washington and the formulation of a new higher wage policy is the offsetting fact that something of the kind should have been done four months ago in order to avert the chaos and cost that have resulted from floundering inaction and the stubborn insistence upon trying to work out an economic impossibility of boosting wages without making provision for providing the pay thereof.

It has been a costly period,
not only in the direct losses in wages suffered by the idle hundreds of thousands of strikers but in added millions upon millions lost in industry and the numerous ramifications of allied businesses through a stalemate of the reconversion period. It can be granted, however, that the corrective effort is better
late than never and for while it looked as if it were to come too late.

It remains to be seen how far the immediate price relief growing out of wage boosts will be permitted
under the policy of holding them down conservatively, but the president has agreed that it must be sufficient to assure profitable operation and that no industry is to be placed in a position of hardship
in which case such industry must apply at once for relief limited to the 1936-37 profit level.

Congressmen generally see an inflation threat in the new wage-price policy, and undoubtedly it is there. They hope generally as the informed public unquestionably does, that the general advance can be kept under control at the new levels, albeit some are dubious about that. If, however, full production can be attained and natural economic laws can come into full play before further demands are made for wage increases, control can be maintained.

A Good Bargain For the Reds

IF the Soviet-Anglo-American arrangement made at the Yalta conference is a fair sample of Franklin D. Roosevelt's generosity then all the people of the United States will fervently hope that Secretary Byrnes is 100 per cent correct in his statement that no record exists of any other secret agreements.

The Yalta pact was bad not only because of the open-handed manner in which lands and privileges were tossed into Russia's lap but because of the barren manner in which the Big Three violated the solemn declaration in the Atlantic Charter that none of them would seek territorial aggrandizement.

Furthermore, the belated announcement that a bargain of this sort was effected shows how inane were Mr. Roosevelt's frequent pretensions that the American public had been informed at the time of everything that was done at Yalta.

As the State department now reveals it, Russia was to declare war
on Japan two or three months after Germany's surrender. In return for this promise, it would receive outright possession of the Kurile islands and of Sakhalin as well as highly important commercial and economic rights in Manchuria. Mr.
Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill further agreed that "these claims of the Soviet Union shall be unquestion-ably fulfilled after Japan has been defeated."

In view of the small part which Russia played in the conquest of Japan, nobody can ever say that it did not strike a good trade at the Yalta Conference.

Plea for Artistic Talent Is Timely

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE have grown so accustomed to depending on Broadway Hollywood and "soap operas" to set the standards of their artistic taste that community life has practically disappeared in this country. Dr. Lewis Webster Jones
president of Bennington college, Bennington, Vermont, recently told
the National Recreation Congress
at Atlantic City.

Dr. Jones said he did not wish to attack commercialized amusements,
but asked for a rebirth of artistic and cultural activities in America
through cultural decentralization
and a return to the local community.
He said he felt it was time to recognize the basic conception of the importance of creative activity in education.

"True artists or the producers who bring their work before the public must not be concerned lest the plans of Dr. Jones should be carried out.
His proposals would serve to find and develop artistic talent in those provinces it and foster an appreciation of art in those who lacked both talent and taste."

suggestions of Dr. Jones, America is teeming with energy and everyone possessing talent ought to have some means of developing it. Contests might offer a good beginning if some townsmen in each locality were able to offer a prize worth shooting at. These could be developed into inter-community projects and contests.

Perhaps the easiest way to start is to enlist children in the work. That method results in arousing the interests of parents and older brothers and sisters. If these projects were undertaken universally and enthusiastically, America could do a great deal not only to develop the artistic talent of its people, but to instill a love of beauty which would revel itself later in all realms of rural and urban life.

Demand for beauty can reward art
and industry, which in many instances are divorced today. If Dr.
Jones' plans were carried out, America the Beautiful might really become beautiful.

Wrist Radios

A Possibility

PERIODICALLY newspaper readers learn about some war-developed scientific marvel which can be translated into peacetime usefulness. The proximity fuse is the latest.

The proximity fuse, of course, was a tiny radio fitted into the nose of an artillery shell. It caused the shell to explode when it got within a certain distance of its target. It was one of the most important of America's secret weapons.

The proximity fuse in peacetime won't blow up anything, but according to Dr. Cleo Burnett, of the National Bureau of Standards, it will permit the manufacture of a radio set no bigger than a package of cigarettes, but producing reception equal to that of the usual

Without going into technical details, it may be said that the tiny radio sets of the future will have their wiring stenciled in thin silver lines on a flat plate instead of the copper wiring system now in use.
Tubes will be less than an inch long. Tiny loud speakers have been developed.

The possibilities of this radio development are fascinating. Who doesn't eagerly await the day when America is a nation of people completely wired for sound?

A Theory That Doesn't Square

CONSIDERING the state in which the nation has been plunged,
it is a pity to agree with President Truman's statement that "this is a place meaning the White House,
where you never lack for crisis
and where there is always a crisis
just around the corner." But there will be no unanimity of opinion with respect to his further declaration that "the next day that crisis is passed and it's just like yesterday's newspaper."

The comfortable theory, apparently held by Mr. Truman, that all is well in the United States, or if it is not well today will be well tomorrow, simply does not square with the facts. The truth is that crises are only delayed, not averted.
They will come, and breed other crises until the time finally arrives
when the whole industrial structure
shakes on its foundation.

The average American strikes
nine and a quarter matches a day,
according to statisticians, and the assertion that there are so many indicated non-smokers.

In a forthcoming movie, the heroine will drag a $35,000 fur coat
behind her in the street and it remains to be seen whether this is another Hollywood custom the ladies will copy.

The Russians we read have taken over a German factory called the Donaudampfschiffahrtswerk.
What they can have it.

INFLUENCE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Henry D. Thoreau was born in 1817 at Concord, Massachusetts. At the age of 20 he graduated from Harvard University. For a time he lived with Emerson and made himself useful in a variety of ways.
But mostly he put his brain to work. He thought out things for himself. To show his independence of mind and his moral courage, he refused to pay taxes to a government that allowed slavery—and he went to jail for it!

At the age of 28 he borrowed an axe from his friend Alcott, and used it to cut down some pine trees, from which he constructed a log cabin at the edge of Walden Pond. Here he reviewed his life, studied the stars at night, and the flowers and moving creatures by day, dreamed, noted the ever-changing moods of Walden Pond,
and gathered together the elements
that later went into his famous book, "Walden," a classic of beauty and understanding.

Thoreau lived in his hut for two years, from 1845-7. "Walden" was published in 1854. Previously his work "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers" was published at his own expense. Out of a total of a thousand copies, only a few hundred sold, and they were housed in his little cabin for years. Today a single copy is a collector's treasure!

It was those two years at Walden that shaped Thoreau's entire life. He organized his mind, and set him apart. Only two books of his were published in his lifetime, but his published journals are among the richest of all the intellectual mines in a world of rich literature. He died in his forty-fifth year, a comparatively young man. During his final illness someone asked him if he had made his peace with God. His reply was: "We have never quarrelled."

It is nearing a hundred years since Thoreau died, yet his influence upon the thought of the world increases year by year, as his published thoughts are read and digested. He stated that "most of the ways by which men earn a living are degrading and that men sell themselves into perpetual bondage by conforming to the traditional ways of the world."

And so this non-conformist lived
as he chose, walked the fields, knew and loved every moving creature
and every growing thing, seeing in each a revelation of God and the concealed principles by which life should be guided. No one can read or study the life and writings of Henry D. Thoreau without feeling anew upon God.

HE SEEMS TO PLAY RIGHT ON

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bartley Crum, San Francisco, Is Slated For Interior Secretary, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The man who heads the list as Harold Ickes' probable successor is Bartley Crum, of San Francisco, who like Ickes, is a liberal Republican.

Crum was chairman of the Committee of Independent Republicans for Franklin Roosevelt during the 1944 campaign, which, together with Senator Bill of Minnesota, pulled a lot of GOP ballots over to the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

During this campaign Crum became a close friend of Democratic National Chairman Bob Hannegan, who offered him several jobs as a reward for his services. One was as a member of the Federal Communications Commission, another was as a federal power commissioner. Crum, however, turned them all down.

At one time last summer when it looked as if Ickes was on his way out, Hannegan also suggested Crum
as secretary of the interior.

Crum's reply was: "You have too good a man in that job already."
At present, Crum is in the Near East as a member of the American-British Committee on Palestine.

A relative newcomer in politics,
Crum first became prominent as an original member of the Willkie braintrust. He was one of Willkie's chief Par Western strategists and campaign advisers, but like Willkie, for some time had leaned toward Roosevelt.

In fact, Crum was confident that had Willkie lived, the former Republican candidate would have announced publicly for the late
president.

Finally, during the fall of 1944,
Crum himself declared publicly for Roosevelt and helped organize the Independent Republican Committee for FDR.

Note—The Par West long has wanted a westerner appointed as secretary of the interior.

Last of the Mohicans
On the morning that Harold Ickes
resigned as secretary of the interior,
his friend Henry Wallace, as usual,
walked four miles to work.
As he walked by the Interior department.

TASTING NEW BREAD

Clinton F. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture, is shown in Washington as he tasted some of the new bread made from flour at the new eighty per cent rate. The pale-ivory colored bread was baked at the Department of Agriculture's baking laboratory in Beltsville, Md. Anderson dispatched to President Truman
three loaves, one baked from ordinary flour, and the others from the "sacrifice" flour.

partment, the secretary of commerce
looked up and said:

"The old curmudgeon is really going this time. Once there were few little Indians; now there's only one."

Whereupon he continued walking to work—the last of the Mohicans.

Note—Henry Wallace was sworn into the original Roosevelt cabinet
as secretary of agriculture just a few minutes after Ickes. As secretary of interior, Ickes preceded him, therefore had served in the cabinet longer than Wallace—up until yesterday.

Congressional Husband

Believe it or not, but Harry Luce, shy, powerful publisher of "Life," "Time" and "Fortune," is going to be initiated into the Ladies
section of the Seventy-eighth Club,
an organization made up of the wives of sophomore congressmen who served their first term with the Seventy-eighth Congress.

Luce happens to be the one man
in America eligible for membership
in this exclusive ladies' organization—due to the fact that his wife, Clare Booth Luce, of Connecticut, came to Washington as a member of the Seventy-eighth Congress. No other man in the United States has this distinction.

At first the ladies didn't think that Harry would want to join. However, since they, as the wives of sophomore Congressmen are members, they didn't see why the husband of a sophomore congressman shouldn't also join the Seventy-eighth Club.

So Mr. Joseph Farrington, attractive wife of the delegate from Hawaii and president of the club, wrote to Mr. Luce, suggesting they would like to entertain him on any Wednesday.

He replied in a charming note, saying that he would be glad to come to Washington on April 10
because "that is a Wednesday woman's birthday." So on April 10, the Seventy-eighth Club will celebrate Clare Luce's forty-third birthday and also initiate her husband into the club.

Four Months Too Late

Only a few people know it, but President Truman could have saved himself—and the nation—about four months of economic headaches over wages and prices. Inside fact is that exactly the same plan he is now adopting, of putting both wages and prices under Chester Bowles, was adopted under Truman last October.

At that time, John Snyder asked a small group of brain-trusters to chart the future of the War Production Board, which "Cap" Krug its then chairman, "was anxious to dismantle altogether."

The economic brain-trusters—
working under Bob Nathan—recommended that the remains of WPB be joined with OPA under a single head, Chester Bowles. They pointed out that production and prices were correlated problems and must be handled together.

They even proposed that Bob Hinckley, former under secretary of commerce and an A-1 man, take over production problems under Bowles, while William Batt of WPB handle prices, also under Bowles.
Bowles wouldn't take Bowles. He wanted none of him. Also, industry didn't like the idea of being under a man
as forthright and uncompromising as Bowles. So Snyder turned the whole thing down.

But today, after four months of inside bickering which has seriously affected the economic life of the nation, exactly the same plan is being adopted. Bowles is taking over both prices, wages, and production.
Weeks of wrangling and national indecision could have been saved
if Harry Truman had not listened to his old friend from the Missouri National Guard, John Snyder.

Capital Chaff
One reason for the current international food shortage is that Leo

Crowley, when FEA boss, refused to heed the warning of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson last summer
when Anderson argued that FEA should help increase plantings of winter wheat, cereals and proteins
in South America. The South American crop was hit by drought, but it would have been considerably larger had Anderson's advice been heeded. . . . Senator Tommy Hart,
the only admiral on the Senate Military Affairs committee, recently asked committee members if there were a dictatorship in the walls. He complained that the Washington
Merry-Go-Round had quoted him al-too accurately when, at a secret session, he defended the War department regarding demobilization.

Chairman Elbert Thomas gave Hart
the satisfaction of checking committee members, each of whom was able to deny that he had talked with this columnist. . . . Representative Clare Hoffman of Michigan, who considers himself an expert at anti-labor legislation, was miffed because he was not consulted in the writing of the harsh case bill passed by the House last week.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, the nominations for the greatest acting of 1945 are now public and once again it appears that politics, nepotism, conniving and sneaking have fouled the award
over talent. Frankly, I'm getting tired of standing by and watching the other actors get the best of it.
I'm beginning to feel like one of Peggy Joyce's bridesmaids. . . . although, come to think of it, that isn't too bad.

Personally, I'm voting for Ray Milland. I not only loved his performance, but he offered me two dollars more for my vote than Gregory Peck did.

And "Lost Week-End" is getting a lot of attention because it has influenced people's actions lately. One of my writers was walking down the street the other day with his typewriter, and this nice old lady walked up to him and said, "Now don't you do it, young man. You step into The Derby with me right now and I'll buy us both a slug."

But we can expect a lot of electioneering between now and the night of the Academy dinner. One year a glamour girl hired an ex-Chicago ward leader to run her campaign. But something backfired. Because the night the votes were counted there were three for her and 5,500 for the mayor.

Candidacy Is Seen In Truman's Acts On Voting Groups

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President Truman may be finding the job of chief executive irksome, but he has the responsibility of service till January 20, 1949, and that's a long way off.

The turbulence in the economic situation has now been supplemented by turbulence in the political situation, and it would appear that Mr. Truman will find it increasingly difficult to avoid making decisions that will antagonize this or that group of voters.

For a man who is reported to be disinclined to run for re-election,
the president shows an amazing
concern for the political sensibilities
of many powerful voting groups.
Indeed, if Mr. Truman really doesn't intend to run as a candidate to succeed himself, it would seem that he has an unparalleled opportunity to exercise a leadership
which in the end would bring a nationwide demand for his continuance in office.

Mr. Truman has not been in the presidency long enough to appreciate the scope of his power. He does not realize that he has authority to command greater respect for the government than has recently been bestowed on that institution by various groups.

Prosecution Fends

Thus, while the tugboat strike
has been settled, the government of the United States still has the responsibility of prosecuting those individuals who caused the tugboat employees to stay out on strike
after the government had set the tugboat companies. The law is specific and Mr. Truman missed an opportunity to uphold the majesty of the law when he allowed the attorney general to ignore the happenings in New York after the seizure.

As the law is written, the mere calling of a union meeting is unlawful once the government has seized the facilities of any employer in any strike if that union meeting
discusses in any way the question of resisting the government by concerted action of the employees. The workers have a right as individuals to decide for themselves whether they will work under government arrest, but their decision cannot be made in collaboration with others
or as the result of any steps taken by union leaders.

Seizure Power Flouted

The whole power of seizure has been flouted in the tugboat strike
and the chance to set an example
by arresting those who violated the Smith-Connally law has been lost.

The president has shown hesitancy to assert his powers. Whatever may be said concerning the wisdom of governmental action by his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt never flattered. He had the courage to act and make decisions. He did not fail to enforce the Smith-Connally law against those local leaders of certain coal mining unions who flouted the government
after the mines were seized.

Mr. Truman may not have any political ambitions. He may be content to be a one-term president.
His political lieutenants would advise against any pronouncement by him at this time and they would hope that he might change his mind. But if he does not care what the pressure groups think and is willing to do what he feels is right, irrespective of what votes

may be lost for a 1948 presidential contest, then he certainly should be adopting a vigorous course in protecting the public interest now. He would have everything to gain and nothing to lose by such a policy.
He would gain the respect of all thoughtful citizens irrespective of party, and the odd thing to contemplate is that maybe he would increase his popularity to the point where he could not possibly lose the election.

Coolidge Case Is Recalled

The courageous course of Calvin Coolidge in 1919 in quelling the police strike in Boston electrified
the country and gave him nationwide applause which led to his nomination for the vice presidency at the 1920 national convention by acclamation.

Mr. Truman is not acting like a president who has eschewed political ambition. He is behaving as if he feared to lose any voting
group at all and as if the thing
he most wanted was to be renominated. As a consequence, he is showing a conspicuous weakness which is being talked about from coast to coast and which is giving the left-wingers encouragement that they may have a chance to nominate Henry Wallace.

There is nothing wrong with the desire of a president to succeed himself for one more term, but there is everything wrong with his inclination to get either the nomination or the election by avoiding clashes with powerful economic groups while the public interest suffers.

Ickes' Contention About Pauley Is Seen Having Basis

By MARK SULLIVAN

After 2,000 words of Ickes' resignation, and an hour of press conference, and a quarter-hour on the radio, and much collateral explosion,
and still more commotion ensuing—after all that, one feels that the public asks little Peterkin's question in Southey's poem, "what does it all mean?" And that a commentator ought to have a better answer than old Caspers: "Why that I cannot tell."

This commentator has some impressions, not all going into the same direction. Mr. Ickes sincerely thinks that a man, Mr. Pauley, associated with the oil industry, ought not to be under-secretary of the Navy, and prospective secretary, because the navy has an immense public interest in oil. For that contention there is much basis. That Mr. Ickes should act on this conviction is consistent with the whole of his long career; he is a reformer in politics in the old sense, and a true sense. That he should take advantage of an opportunity to make his resignation expensive is likewise consistent with his career; he has always understood
the value of timing and drama.

There is a surmise that Mr. Ickes like other New Dealers, would like to hold Mr. Truman to the New Deal and to President Roosevelt's policies;
and, to that end, would like to prevent him from taking business men and conservatives into his official family. This is true as to left-wing-ers as a group. But Mr. Ickes is not really a left-winger, and habitually acts for himself rather than for any group. Finally, there is the uniqueness of the event, making it dramatic.

A Political Slogan

Mr. Truman said, as quoted by Mr. Ickes, "of course, you must tell the truth, but be as gentle as you can with Ed Pauley." That phrase "be as gentle as you can"
will probably become a political slogan for Republicans and other opponents of Mr. Truman. Yet it is what any man, speaking off-hand, might have said. This leads to another impression, that as an exchange between the two men, Mr.
Truman deserves sympathy.

As bearing on the future, there are public matters afoot more presented than Mr. Ickes' resignation.
About these, the present writer, for two weeks beginning next week, will not be writing. He refrains from saying he has earned a vacation or needs one. He has been invited to go fishing in southern waters and he is going. Until the forsythia blooms again in Washington, or by the calendar March 4, so long!

St. Paul's Lutheran Church Fetes Minister and Wife

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gleichman and Son Honored at Reception

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gleichman returned last August with his wife and son, Edward, from Rajahmundry, in Southern India, where he had served as a missionary for seven years.

A native of Cumberland, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gleichman, Bedford road, who were also honor guests at the reception. He was a member of St. Paul's before going to Gettysburg, Pa., where he was graduated in 1936 from Gettysburg college and theological seminary.

After graduation, the Rev. Mr. Gleichman went to Frederick, where he served as assistant pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church. He was ordained in Baltimore in 1937, and left for India with his wife in October 1938.

Mrs. James Orr, president of the Mame Gephart mission circle of the church, and general chairman of the reception, presided. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor, opened the program with the invocation, followed by selections by the St. Paul's Southern Jubilee Chorus.

Dr. Bowersox then gave a brief address, welcoming the guests of honor and expressing the congregation's pleasure in having them at the reception. He presented the Rev. Mr. Gleichman with a billfold in behalf of the congregation.

The latter discussed his experiences in India, and remarked that the first thing which he noticed upon returning to the states was the genuine friendliness of the American people. He said that one of the most valuable experiences in his missionary work was to watch at first hand the transformation brought about by Christianity at work in a foreign land.

Mrs. Orr then presented Mrs. Gleichman with a handbag, the gift of the congregation. The jubilee chorus, directed by Andrew Wilson, with Mrs. Bowersox at the piano, sang several additional selections, all folk music of the south.

Refreshments were served by a committee under the direction of Mrs. George Herpich and Mrs. George Siebert.

Mrs. Orr was assisted in arranging for the reception by Mrs. Roy Whitson, president of the women's missionary society; Mrs. Cromwell Zembower, president of the Young Women's society; and Mrs. Bowersox, president of the ladies aid society of the church.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church Fetes Minister and Wife

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gleichman and Son Honored at Reception

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gleichman and their young son, Edward, were honor guests at a reception held at St. Paul's Lutheran church last evening.

The Rev. Mr. Gleichman returned last August with his wife and son from Rajahmundry in Southern India, where he had served as a missionary for seven years.

A native of Cumberland, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gleichman, Bedford road, who were also honor guests at the reception. He was a member of St. Paul's before going to Gettysburg, Pa., where he was graduated in 1936 from Gettysburg college and theological seminary.

Paper Workers Accept Offer Of Pay Boost

The United Paper Workers of America has accepted a wage increase offer of twelve cents an hour for employees of the Luke, Md. Covington, Va. and Williamsburg, Pa. plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Edward Diehl, representative of the CIO organization, has announced.

The increase became effective at the Luke plant Monday and will be placed into effect at the other two plants Monday, February 18.

The outbreak to the normal forty hour work week will provide jobs for another 100 workers it was estimated yesterday.

The agreement on 12 cents came at a Monday meeting here at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Luke workers approved the offer at meetings Tuesday at the Redmen's Hall, Westminster.

Diehl explained a four-cent increase was agreed to in August, which added to the 12 makes a wage jump of 16 cents an hour since the end of the war.

The representative explained that the increase was negotiated through a reopening clause in the contract, which runs until August 20, 1946. The UPWA had asked for a jump of 25 cents an hour. This request was delayed pending the outcome of a dispute with an American Federation of Labor group at the plant over bargaining rights. Finally it was decided to go ahead anyway.

The company countered with an offer of 10 cents, which was rejected. Sometimes during the negotiations it is understood that 12 cents was mentioned as a possible settlement figure but in rejecting the ten-cent offer the union instructed negotiators to insist upon 15 cents.

The desire for a wage increase is said to result from two factors. First of all the workers sought the increase in line with the aims of other unions and secondly, an increase was sought to offset a contemplated reduction in hours at the plants.

The plants have been working 48 hours and it is reported a cutback to 40 hours is scheduled for early in March. Under present arrangements time and one-half is paid for hours worked over 40.

Arthur Boyce Weds Miss Martha Cook

Miss Martha Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cook, Route 3, city, and Arthur A. Boyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Riley, Rawlings, were married February 9, in the parsonage of the Grace Baptist church.

The Rev. W. Randolph Keefe officiated at the ceremony. Miss Dorothy Cook, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Paul E. Boyce served as best man for his brother.

The bride, who attended Port Hills high school, is employed by the Celanese Corporation of America. The bridegroom was recently honorably discharged from the armed forces after four years of service with the army in Newfoundland and eight months in Europe. He has returned to his position at the Celanese, which he held prior to his entrance in the armed service.

The couple resides on Route 3, Cumberland.

Moose Will Have Ceremonial Here

Over 600 persons, representing Moose lodges in Maryland and West Virginia, are expected to attend a Potomac Valley Legion ceremonial to be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Moose home here, Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, will be host at the event.

A class of forty candidates will be initiated at the ceremonial, and a banquet will be served at 5:30 p. m. by members of Chapter 917, Women of the Moose. A floor show will be held at 7:30 p. m., with six entertainers from Pittsburgh.

An executive board meeting of the Legion will be held before the ceremonial, beginning at 1 p. m. Frank J. Davis, deputy grand governor, and Ralph Dunc, Romney, W. Va., noble North Moose, will report on the Legion executive board meeting held in Pittsburgh February 1, 2 and 3.

GOP Efforts To Win Negro Voters Make Little Progress, Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., February 15.—Recent Republican efforts on behalf of F.E.P.C. legislation in the Senate once again highlight the longstanding Republican Party problem of winning the colored vote back into the G.O.P. fold.

These efforts are naturally concentrated upon colored voters outside the Southern states, since the vast majority of Negroes in the South do not cast ballots.

There is no evidence today to indicate that Republican efforts are winning over any great proportion of colored voters in the states outside the South.

In fact, a poll just completed throughout the nation, which includes a cross-section of Negro voters, finds the colored voters favoring the Democratic party today over the Republican party by a vote of three to two.

Negroes Favor Democrats
The fact that colored voters continue to prefer the Democratic to the Republican party can be explained in large part by economic factors.

Here are the figures of negro voters and white voters in comparable occupation groups.

The figures are based on the question: "If a presidential election were being held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or Republican?"

Colored voters 60% 40%
White voters in same occupations .. 58 42

The figures above are of those with opinions on the subject. Three out of every ten colored voters, about two out of ten white voters in the comparable group had no opinion.

As was mentioned earlier, the above figure of 58% Democratic for white voters in the same occupation groups as the negro voters represents the opinion of white voters in the skilled, semi-skilled, and unskilled occupation categories.

The Republican party is preferred by a majority of white voters in business and professional and farm groups, outside the South, and the two parties are about equally strong among the white-collar workers.

Many Factions Involved
This is not to say that race will not at times be more important as a determining factor than economic status, but the evidence does indicate that until the present economic cleavages give way, or until the Republican party can convince voters in the middle and lower economic income groups that it represents their best interests, little headway in winning the colored vote is likely to be made.

At the present time, Institute surveys find, only about one out of every ten in the lower economic groups think that the Republican party represents his best interests.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE QUALITY OF LOVE

Once I looked on a dead face. For me, all life had centered about that face.

We had had twenty-one years together—sweet days of childhood—bright adventuring years of young manhood. Then he had gone his way and I was left alone.

When I looked at that face and thought that we would never have any more years together I did not see how I could stand it.

Then there came flooding over me, in a bitter tide, the memory of all the petty, unkind things I had done to that loved one, the times I had failed or hurt him—the spoiled moments.

And my grief as I thought of those moments, was infinitely greater than my grief over the lost years. I knew that I could have faced the empty years bravely if I had never married the moments.

And suddenly I saw that it is not the quantity of love that counts, but the quality.

Not the time we spend together but the use we make of that time. We may spend many years in the closest relationship yet never glimpse the heights and depths of love.

It is better to have loved perfectly for one minute than to have loved carelessly for a long life time.

We give such patient service to manual labor, exhausting ourselves in delicate detail—but in that greatest service of love we are so negligent.

We procrastinate—putting off an expression of our devotion, thinking of all the tomorrows we will have together.

I learned this truth in that terrible hour when I looked on that dead face. I learned it too late. Try to learn before it is too late.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

Making a Man

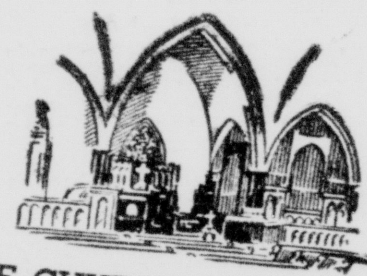

Jimmy tells us it's very easy. You just roll little snowballs around the back yard until they get "big and fat." Then you pile them on top of each other. Next you put in lumps of coal to make the eyes and nose and coat-buttons. And then you find an old broom, and Daddy's spare hat . . . and you borrow that ugly black scarf that Aunt Mabel gave Daddy for Christmas. And there—you have a snow-man.

He isn't any ordinary snow-man, either! As a matter of fact, in the imagination of his youthful creator, this snow-man is "exactly the kind of man I'm going to be when I grow up."

Well, Jimmy, it isn't as easy to make a real man as it is to make a snow-man. It takes the right environment, parental example, thorough education, wise discipline. And, most of all, it requires religious training in the Church, and the proper Christian influence in the home.

And so . . . while the snow-man can be any kind of man you wish to make him . . . YOU, Jimmy, will become the kind of man, you, your parents and your environment make of you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the Church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday.

Nurses Occupy New Home at Allegany Hospital

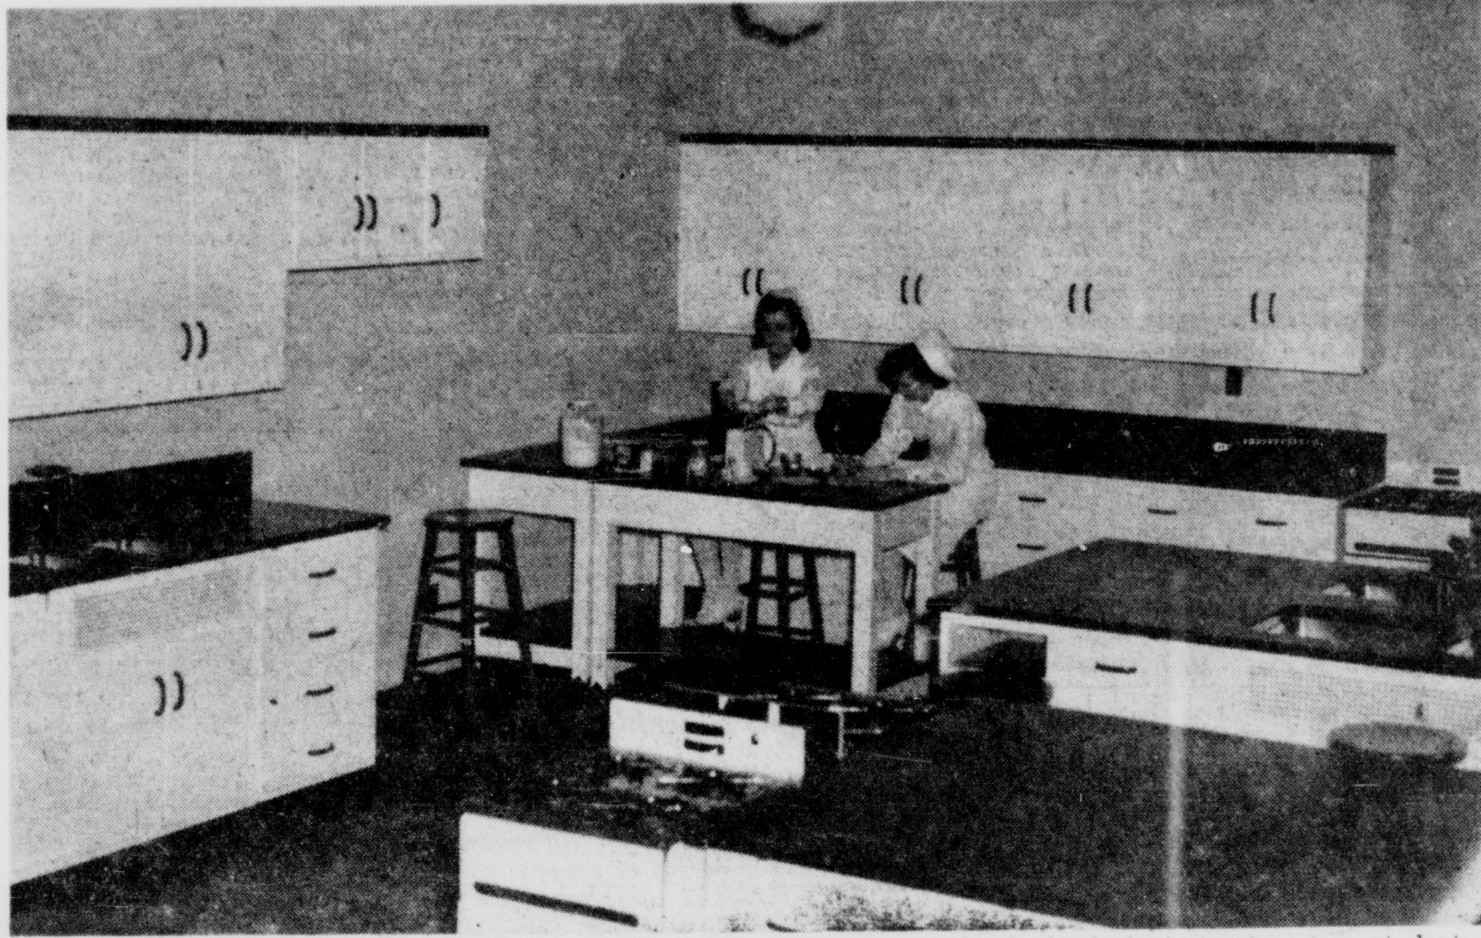

MISS CARMELA A. GUARINO, R.N., is shown demonstrating the new eye, ear, nose and throat models to student nurses at an anatomy class in the nurses new home at Allegany hospital. Standing beside the models are Miss Kathryn Footen and Miss Mary Jane Di Simons. Seated are Miss Alice Niner, Miss Monica Monagan and Miss Lucille Welch.

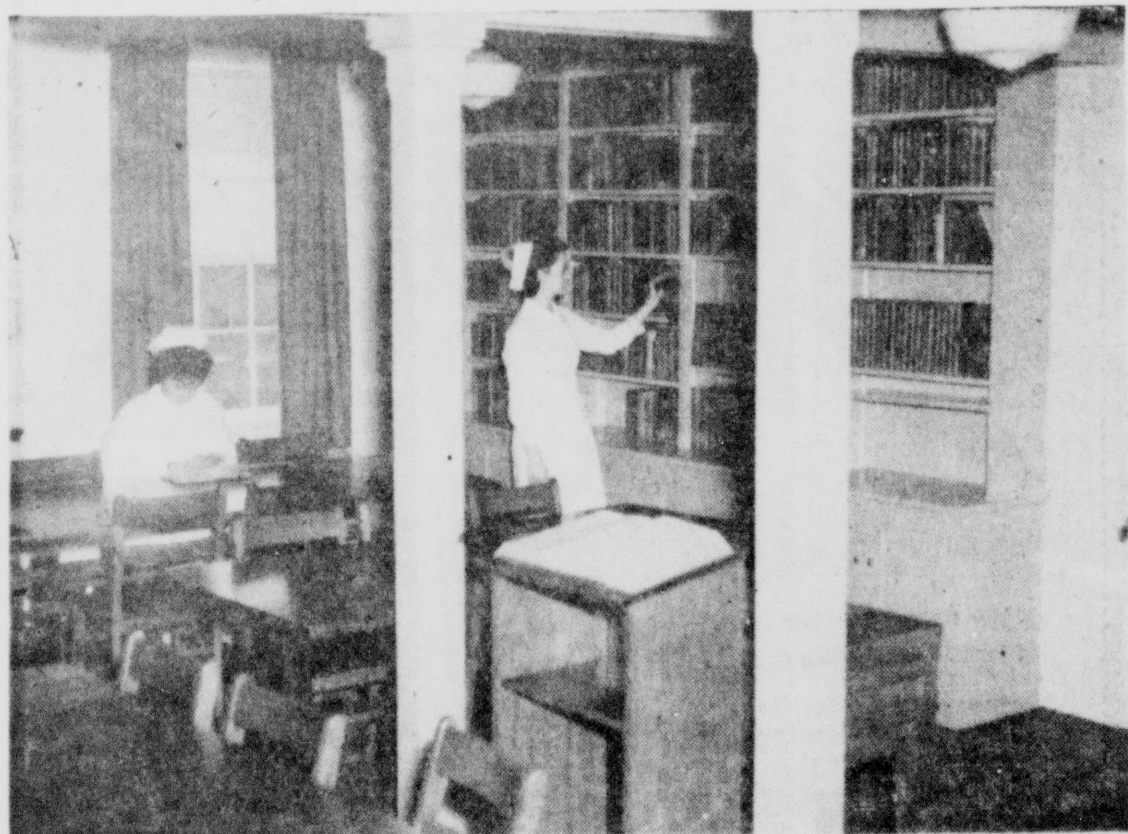

MRS. WYAND F. DOERNER, R.N., nursing arts instructor, is initiating student nurses in the use of the stethoscope and sphygmomanometer. Taking blood pressure of Miss Gertrude Dooley (student nurse practice patient) are Miss Betty Zerfass and Miss Ruth Yommer. Miss Mary Heming is sitting at the chart table and Miss Zena Brinkman is at the blackboard.

IN THE NUTRITION LABORATORY, where Mrs. Frank Werner, of Cumberland, is instructor, two student nurses are shown computing the amount of calories for a diabetic diet. The nurses are Miss Marguerite Martz, who is weighing the carbohydrate content and Miss Carol Noone, who is recording the results.

THE STUDENT NURSES LIBRARY contains many books which students will use while they are at Allegany. Miss Elizabeth Clatterbuck is seated at a desk while Miss Rita Edwards is selecting a book from a shelf.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE is very important for student nurses and the photographer took this picture of Miss Stella Corliss as she was brushing her hair in her cozy private room.

STUDENT NURSES go to the spacious living room and lounge for relaxation and study. Miss Mary Edmiston (seated) is brushing up on "Nursing Education," while Miss Alice Niner (right) is reading "Hospital Progress."

MRS. LOUISE HARTSOCK, secretary to the director of nurses, is shown in her office of the school of nursing. She is one of the busiest persons at the home as she keeps all kinds of records and handles much detail work.

Action Is Sought On School Plans In Garrett County

By GEORGE H. HANST
OAKLAND, Feb. 15.—A request that the state department of education send two or three representatives to Garrett county in the very near future to confer with the county board of education members and P. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, relative to the possibilities of incorporating the seventh grade pupils of the neighborhood into the high school organization, was made by the board at its meeting this week in Oakland.

The board directed Rathbun to prepare a letter containing the request, which was done, the latter stated. The letter also pointed out to Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent, some quotations from previous correspondence about the schools of the community, he said.

Will Study Situation
In a letter written to Rathbun on October 11, it had been set forth that Miss Stern and Dr. Pullen, after going over the situation county by county, would advise officials here when they got to the Garrett county situation.

Dr. Pullen's letter was in reply to one written by Rathbun on October 5, 1945, in which the latter said that from such a study the county could be advised materially and that the local group would be glad to confer with them.

Rathbun also pointed out that in Dr. Pullen's letter of October 11 it was stated that he (Dr. Pullen) was studying the reports made to him by Miss Barnatt and Mr. Rathbun but that more information was necessary before making a final decision.

All references and quotations of previous letters were listed in Rathbun's letter this week and also asked that the study be made at as early date as possible, studying all possibilities, and asked that after their meeting Rathbun make a summary of events since January 27 showed:

That many parents learned that night at a P-T-A meeting, to their surprise, that the junior high school program for Oakland was not being carried through as had been previously announced definitely in July, 1945, by Superintendent Rathbun, and had not been in effect since December.

That later, it was learned, Dr. Pullen had written on December 5 making it clear no reorganization would be approved before adequate facilities were made available but no public announcement of this was ever made by school officials. Up to that time Merle Frantz, principal of Oakland elementary school, felt the limited curriculum would be accepted.

Program Discontinued
That division of the high school auditorium into four additional classrooms, eliminating any assemblies and basketball, was the only suggested solution ever presented by Superintendent Rathbun to the state department.

That the program was also discontinued at Grantsville but was apparently under way in Friendsville, Accident and Kitzmiller, although Rathbun stated the state department had not approved it formally.

That it was learned later that the discontinuance of the junior high program was a result of the fact that Walter W. Dawson, president, and Stuart F. Hamill, vice-president, of the county board of education, upon learning of it Dawson declared he would get some definite information from the state department, and the meeting of the board this week was for this purpose.

P-T-A Committee Meets
A meeting of the executive committee of the Garrett County P-T-A council was held Monday in Oakland high school, at which time plans were outlined for future council meetings. Mrs. Fred Beachy, president, was in charge.

The next meeting will be held in the high school auditorium on Tuesday, March 26, Mrs. Beachy is urging all P-T-A groups in the county to name two delegates to attend for a full representation vote. The council is also inviting teachers, parents and patrons interested in child welfare to attend the March meeting.

Mrs. Beachy announced appointment of two committees: membership—F. D. Bittle, chairman; Merle Frantz, Mrs. George Hanst, Proctor—Mrs. Carolyn Wilson and Mason Callis.

V. F. W. Will Meet
Members of the recently organized Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Monday evening, February 18, at 8 o'clock at the American Legion home. It was announced by Don Browning, post commander.

Regular meetings are being held on the first and third Mondays of each month. Overseas veterans are eligible to join.

At the last meeting Joe Sain was named post adjutant and plans were made to organize an independent baseball team for Oakland in the spring. A committee is to be appointed at Monday's meeting.

Browning said the group also planned to sponsor other projects for the betterment of the community.

Ordered To Report
Six registrants who have been accepted for general military service have been ordered to report to the local draft board on Monday night, February 25, to be sent to Baltimore for induction.

They are Daryl LeMark Shaffer, Deer Park; Darwin E. Pike, Crelin; Robert Dale Shoenaker, Accident; Albert Henry Bower, Accident; Gailen Ross Wilson, Oakland; Joseph Russell Barnhouse, Vindex.

Marriage Is Announced
Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Beckman, formerly of Oakland, now of Baltimore, announce the marriage of their daughter, Clara Kathryn, to Winford L. Veale, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Veale, Sr., of Columbia.

Congregation of Frostburg Church To Mark Seventy-fifth Anniversary

First English Baptist To Hold Celebration Next July, Pastor Says

By RUDOLPH NICKEL
FROSTBURG, Feb. 15.—The Rev. H. O. Walters, who has been pastor of First English Baptist church since June 1, 1944, stated this week that plans are being made by the congregation for the observance in July of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the church, and that he and Mrs. Walters are co-operating with a view to making the event one of the most important in the history of the Frostburg church.

The Rev. Mr. Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walters, Baltimore, was graduated from Wake Forest college, Wake Forest, N. C., January 1, 1943, and had charge of a Baptist church at Maryland Springs, on the Eastern Shore until September, 1943. He took a year's work at the Louisville Baptist seminary, Louisville, Ky., from September, 1943, to June, 1944, before coming to Frostburg. He expects to return to the Louisville seminary next September to complete his course.

Since the Rev. Mr. Walters assumed charge of the Frostburg pastorate, his church has shown a fifteen per cent increase in membership and the church itself has been liquidated. In addition, a building fund has been created amounting to $1,500, of which $675 has already been secured to make general repairs to the exterior and interior of the church. A junior choir has also been organized and equipped with vestments.

The Rev. Mr. Walters was married July 18, 1943, to the former Miss Ruth Elizabeth Krause, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Krause, Baltimore. They have a daughter, Sharon, born November 30, 1944.

Mrs. Walters is director of the junior choir, story hour leader in the Baptist Training Union, a teacher in the Sunday school and advisor to the Royal Ambassadors, a group of young boys recently organized at the church. She is also mission study chairman of the Women's Missionary society. She studied for a year at the Louisville Baptist seminary, she plans to complete the course after returning to the school in September.

Garrett County Citizens Prepare To Comply with Loar's Requests

Organizations and Individuals Move Swiftly To Back County Commissioners in Acceptance of $175,000 Bequest for Erection of Hospital

By GEORGE HANST

OAKLAND, Feb. 15.—With citizens of the county expressing themselves freely over the generosity of the bequest of $175,000 for construction and equipping of a hospital at Oakland, provided in the will of the late George W. Loar, organizations and individuals moved swiftly this week to give their unqualified backing to the county commissioners, upon whose heads will fall the responsibility of formally accepting the grant.

Many were planning to go before the board next Monday and go on record as heartily favoring the acceptance and promising their support in the future to the program, in an effort to make sure that the amount will not go by default to West Virginia Wesleyan college.

According to the provisions of the will the county commissioners must agree by proper resolution to accept, maintain and support the hospital under joint control of themselves and an advisory committee of five persons. If the commissioners "within one year from the date of my death shall fail or refuse to adopt the resolution above provided for and to accept this bequest and agree to accept, maintain and support said hospital, when erected and conveyed to them, then the sum of $125,000 goes to the trustees of West Virginia Wesleyan college for the erection and equipping of a boys' dormitory on the campus, or a student union building, or some other permanent building."

Jonas W. Sines, commissioner, declared, "I heartily favor the erection of such a hospital and feel that the other commissioners are of the same opinion." He was not able to say whether or not a formal acceptance could be assured next week. "It might be advisable to appoint a committee of citizens to make a thorough study of hospitals before any final decision is reached," he asserted.

Major Lawrence M. Fraley declared a meeting of the town council would be held prior to Monday, to officially sanction the use of the town property, formerly the Helbig property, at the northeast edge of town, for such a hospital and feel that the other commissioners are of the same opinion." He was not able to say whether or not a formal acceptance could be assured next week. Action Is Sought On School Plans In Garrett County

State Board of Education Asked To Send Representatives to Oakland

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Feb. 15.—A request that the state department of education send two or three representatives to Garrett county in the near future to confer with the county board of education members and P. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, relative to the present possibilities of incorporating the seventh grade pupils of the neighborhood into the high school organization, was made by the board at its meeting this week in Oakland.

The board directed Rathbun to prepare a letter containing the request, which was done, the latter stated. The letter also pointed out to Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent, some quotations from previous correspondence about the schools of the community, he said.

Will Study Situation
In a letter written to Rathbun on October 11, it had been set forth that Miss Stern and Dr. Pullen, after going over the situation county by county, would advise officials here when they got to the Garrett county situation.

Dr. Pullen's letter was in reply to one written by Rathbun on October 5, 1945, in which the latter said that from such a study the program could be advanced materially and that the local group would be glad to confer with them.

Rathbun also pointed out that in Dr. Pullen's letter of October 11 it was stated that he (Dr. Pullen) was studying the reports made to him by Miss Stern and Dr. Rathbun but that more information was necessary before making a final decision.

All references and quotations of previous letters were listed in Rathbun's letter this week and also asked that the study be made at as early date as possible, studying all possibilities and asking that after their members had made a study, then to confer with the board and with him.

A summary of events since January 27 showed:

That many parents learned that night at a P-T-A meeting, to their surprise, that the junior high school program for Oakland was not being carried through as had been previously announced definitely in July, 1945, by Superintendent Rathbun, and had not been in effect since December.

That later, it was learned, Dr. Pullen had written on December 5 making it clear no reorganization would be approved before adequate facilities were made available but no public announcement of this was ever made by school officials. Up to that time Merle Frantz, principal of Oakland elementary school, felt the limited curriculum would be accepted.

Program Discontinued
That division of the high school auditorium into four additional classrooms, eliminating any assemblies and basketball, was the only suggested solution ever presented by Superintendent Rathbun to the state department.

That the program was also discontinued at Grantsville but was apparently under way in Pleasantville, Accident and Kitzmiller, although Rathbun stated the state department had not approved it formally.

That it was learned later that the discontinuance of the junior high program was a surprise to Walter W. Dawson, president, and Stuart F. Hamill, vice-president of the county board of education. Upon learning of it Dawson declared he would get some definite information from the state department, and the meeting of the board this week was for this purpose.

P-T-A Committee Meets
A meeting of the executive committee of the Garrett County P-T-A council was held Monday in Oakland high school, at which time plans were outlined for future council meetings. Mrs. Fred Beachy, president, was in charge.

The next meeting will be held in the high school auditorium on Tuesday, March 26. Mrs. Beachy is urging all P-T-A groups in the county to name two delegates to attend for a full representation vote. The council is also inviting teachers, parents and patrons interested in child welfare to attend the March meeting.

Mrs. Beachy announced appointment of two committees: membership—P. D. Bittle, chairman; Merle Frantz, Mrs. George Hanst. Program—Mrs. Carolyn Wilson and Mason Galla.

V. F. W. Will Meet
Members of the recently organized Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Monday evening, February 18, at 8 o'clock at the American Legion home. It was announced by Don Browning, post commander.

Regular meetings are being held on the first and third Mondays of each month. Overseas veterans are eligible to join.

At the last meeting Joe Sain was named post adjutant and plans were made to organize an independent baseball team for Oakland in the spring. A committee is to be appointed at Monday's meeting. Browning said the group also planned to sponsor other projects for the betterment of the community.

Ordered To Report
Six registrants who have been accepted for general military service have been ordered to report to the local draft board on Monday night, February 25, to be sent to Baltimore for induction.

They are Daryl LeMark Shaffer, Deer Park; Darwin Oren Pike, Crelin; Robert Dale Shoemaker, Accident; Albert Henry Bowser, Accident; Galen Ross Wilson, Oakland; Joseph Russell Barnhouse, Vindex.

Congregation of Frostburg Church To Mark Seventy-fifth Anniversary

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Feb. 15.—The Rev. H. O. Walters, who has been pastor of First English Baptist church since June 1, 1944, stated this week that plans are being made by the congregation for the observance in July of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the church, and that he and Mrs. Walters are co-operating with a view to making the event one of the most important in the history of the Frostburg church.

The Rev. Mr. Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walters, Baltimore, was graduated from Wake Forest college, Wake Forest, N. C., January 1, 1943, and had charge of a Baptist circuit at Mardella Springs, on the Eastern Shore until September, 1943. He took a year's work at the Louisville Baptist seminary, Louisville, Ky., from September, 1943, to June, 1944, before coming to Frostburg. He expects to return to the Louisville seminary next September to complete his course.

Since the Rev. Mr. Walters assumed charge of the Frostburg pastorate, his church has shown a fifteen per cent increase in membership and the church debt has been liquidated. In addition, a building fund has been created amounting to $15,000, of which $675 has already been secured to make general repairs to the exterior and interior of the church. A junior choir has also been organized and equipped with vestments.

The Rev. Mr. Walters was married July 18, 1943, to the former Miss Ruth Elizabeth Krause, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Krause, Baltimore. They have a daughter, Sharon, born November 30, 1944.

Mrs. Walters is director of the junior choir, story hour leader in the Baptist Training Union, a teacher in the Sunday school and advisor to the Royal Ambassadors, a group of young boys recently organized at the church. She is also mission study chairman of the Women's Missionary society. She studied for a year at the Louisville Baptist seminary and plans to complete the course after returning to the school in September.

Scout Service Planned
Frostburg Boy Scout Troop 26 sponsored by Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will meet at Scout headquarters Sunday at 7 p. m. to attend evening services at American Evangelical and Reformed churches. Brochure members of the American Legion and the ladies' auxiliary will meet at the Legion home at 7 p. m. to join the Boy Scouts attending the service.

The Rev. George L. Wheeler, pastor, will deliver a sermon appropriate to the thirty-sixth anniversary of the Boy Scout movement in the United States. Special music will be played. Charles Hager, scoutmaster, will be in charge of the Boy Scouts.

Mrs. Dawson Dies
Mrs. Laura Belle Dawson, 62, widow of Joseph Dawson, 70 West Mechanic street, Frostburg, died this afternoon at 3:20 o'clock in Miners hospital where she had been a patient for a week. She had been seriously ill for three weeks.

She is survived by the following children: James A. Dawson, Frostburg; Naomi and Harry Dawson, at home; Clarence, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Leonard Mills, Detroit, Mich.; William, Lonaconing and Mrs. Gladys Harden, Cumberland.

Four brothers, Clarence, James and Alec Greenhorn, all of Akron, Ohio, and George Greenhorn, Parsons, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. Walter Law and Mrs. Edith O'Neal, both of Mann's Choice, Pa., and thirteen grandchildren also survive.

A native of Barton, Mrs. Dawson had lived here for a number of years. She was a member of First Methodist church.

Organizations and Individuals Move Swiftly To Back County Commissioners in Acceptance of $175,-000 Bequest for Erection of Hospital

By GEORGE HANST

OAKLAND, Feb. 15.—With citizens of the county expressing themselves freely over the generosity of the bequest of $175,000 for construction and equipping of a hospital at Oakland, provided in the will of the late George W. Loar, organizations and individuals moved swiftly this week to give their unqualified backing to the county commissioners, upon whose heads will fall the responsibility of formally accepting the grant.

Many were planning to go before the board next Monday and go on record as heartily favoring the acceptance and promising their support in the future to the program, in an effort to make sure that the amount will not go by default to West Virginia Wesleyan college.

According to the provisions of the will the county commissioners must agree by proper resolution to accept, maintain and support the hospital under joint control of themselves and an advisory committee of five persons. If the commissioners "with- in one year from the date of my death shall fail or refuse to adopt the resolution above provided for and to accept this bequest and agree to accept, maintain and support said hospital, when erected and conveyed to them, then the sum of $125,000 goes to the trustees of the late Virginia Wesleyan college for the erection and equipping of a boys' dormitory on the campus or a student union building, or some other permanent building."

Jonas W. Sines, commissioner, declared, "I heartily favor the erection of such a hospital and feel that the other commissioners are of the same opinion." He was not able to say whether or not a formal acceptance could be assured next week. "It might be advisable to appoint a committee of citizens to make a thorough study of hospitals as to cost of erection, upkeep, etc., before any final decision is reached," he added.

Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley declared a meeting of the town council would be held prior to Monday, to officially sanction the use of the town property, formerly the Heibig property, at the northeast end of town in his will Mr. Loar stated: "It is my desire that such building be erected on what is known as the Heibig land, now owned by the town of Oakland." Mr. Fraley said that the council sometime ago offered the site when it was learned of the possibility of a hospital here and he felt there would be complete agreement among councilmen in confirming the gift. This statement was affirmed by Harry L. Stemple, member of the council.

The property is now used as a community park but Fraley said he had in mind that the town's recreation and park plans could be continued and expanded on the town property under the municipal golf course, west of town.

Sines, Fraley and others, who have talked frequently with people throughout the county since the bequest was made known last week declared everyone was talking in favor of the hospital, some seemed overwhelmed with the generous gift some were offering to assist in supplying an amount necessary to furnish a room, and all felt it was something the county had needed for many years. Organization leaders were planning to bring the subject before their members to officially pledge their united assistance. Favorable reaction was being reported from all sections of the county.

Court Will Convene
Grand and petit jurors for the March term of the Garrett County Circuit Court were selected by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, in the presence of attorneys and court officials.

The grand jury will convene Monday morning, March 11, at 10 o'clock. Irvin R. Rudy, Oakland, was named foreman of the grand jury and the other twenty-two members include Harry O. Durst, Herbert C. Wildesen, Byron H. Bender, L. F. Friend, Walter W. Keller, Franklin E. Sporel, William C. Sears, John DeWitt, Emerson Thomas, Hu-

$17,137.96 Is Spent by Local Welfare Board

Average of 48 Children Cared for in Foster Homes Last Year

In a report on 1945 activities of the county welfare board, Mrs. Elmer Westfield, executive secretary, said that a total of $17,137.96 was expended by the board.

During last year an average of forty-eight children were being cared for in foster homes each month. The number varied from a high of fifty-eight children last May to a low of forty children in November. There are thirty-five foster homes in the county.

Mrs. Westfield said that children cared for in foster homes ranged in age from two weeks to 17 years, and that their average length of stay in such homes was one year.

The average monthly cost per child was $32, which included room, board, clothing, school supplies and medical care. Approximately half the children were referred to the board by juvenile court for placement in foster homes, while the remainder were referred by a temporary home in the county.

Mrs. Westfield said that children who were unable for various reasons to give their children proper care.

Temporary Home Needed

Recalling the case of 9-year-old who was allegedly beaten by her father, Mrs. Westfield said that a temporary home is needed for the child after she is discharged from a local hospital.

It will be necessary to send welfare workers to the hospital to talk with the child and gain her confidence and trust before she will be ready for placement in a temporary home, Mrs. Westfield said.

The executive secretary said that although the welfare board has been seeking persons willing to operate a temporary home, no applications from such persons have been received. Such a home would be valuable in that it would provide a place to keep children for a month or so before permanent foster homes are found for them, she pointed out.

If children are placed in foster homes without this transition period to allow welfare workers to study the case and find a suitable foster home for them, the foster parents may be dissatisfied and the children themselves will not be happy in their new environment, Mrs. Westfield said.

She suggested that persons such as substitute teachers or others who are not employed in full-time work may be able to provide a temporary foster home. Only one such home is needed in the county. The board will pay $1 a day for board as well as an additional fee if the application is approved.

Recent Cases Cited

Citing recent cases handled by the board, Mrs. Westfield said that a woman who was separated from her husband was working to support herself and her six-month-old baby, and that she appealed to the board to find a foster home for the child, since she was not able to give the boy full-time care.

Although the baby had been fed only milk since his birth, a medical examination before he was placed in a foster home showed that he was in good physical condition except for being underweight. In the two weeks since his placement, the child has shown marked improvement in health, Mrs. Westfield said.

Three foster homes in the county are available for the placement of babies, and the board pays $1 per day for their temporary care, plus any funds necessary for additional needs.

In the case of the baby boy, the child will remain in the foster home for three months, after which the mother will decide whether she is able to take the child home or he will be placed in a permanent home.

The welfare board has a list of persons who wish to adopt children, but only one adoption was made last year, Mrs. Westfield said. The board is the only agency in the county which handles adoptions.

Agreement, Announced

to announce settlement of the steel strike. Snyder declared.

He said the president expressed his appreciation to CIO President Philip Murray and United States Steel President Benjamin F. Fairless, who had conducted the full-dress negotiations at the White House prior to the actual walkout. The corporation then rejected Mr. Truman's compromise while the union accepted it.

The latest negotiations were handled for the company by Vice President John A. Stephens, in charge of industrial relations, and Roger M. Blough, the corporation's general counsel.

Stephens said work would be resumed Monday without discrimination against strikers for their activities in the stoppage.

Wael, met have said, however, that it will be two or three weeks before full production can be resumed because of cold furnaces and other factors.

Murray expressed hope for a speedy end of the strike at the temporary home. Mrs. Westfield said that the strike would continue there until separate agreements are reached.

The United States Steel producing subsidiaries are Carnegie-Illinois, American Steel and Wire, National Tube, Columbia Steel and Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Companies.

New Pact Runs for Year

Schwellenbach explained that the new agreement runs for one year, expiring February 15, 1947.

A reporter suggested it was "conceivable" that the strike might continue for some time at the other steel operations, but Murray said that was "hardly conceivable."

The principal other companies with which Murray now must bargain include Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Inland Steel — the four independent subsidiaries described as "Little Steel" — and National Steel, Crucible, Jones and Laughlin, Wickwire Spencer, Pittsburgh Steel and Wheeling Steel.

Approximately 1,200 plants were struck in the industry-wide strike. A union official said that the thirty-seven district directors would be informed immediately of the terms of the United States Steel agreement and they would contact the negotiating committees of the other companies at once.

It is possible to reach agreements with some of these other firms within a day or two, this union spokesman suggested.

The retroactive issue on which negotiations finally snarled involved an estimated $4,400,000 to United States Steel employees according to an official estimate.

The industry-wide figure is $16,450,000, on the basis of eighteen and one-half cents an hour for the fifteen working days between January 1 and January 21.

$5 Price Increase Offered

President Truman, in his news conference earlier today, had announced that a $5 a ton average steel price increase had been offered to the companies.

Meanwhile repercussions of Mr. Truman's new wage control and his aides' last night as providing a "bo-ss" for a steel settlement — the in antity. Among them are:

1. AFL President William Green denounced it as "unsatisfactory, unacceptable and a backward step," and said his employees would be willing to bargain with labor under such terms.

2. President Truman asserted it was not a new price line but a "bulge in the old line" which could be prevented from becoming an inflationary breakthrough.

3. The issue of who is economic boss — Chester Bowles, new stabilization director, or Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder — under the new policy was settled by Mr. Truman. He said Snyder still runs the show.

4. Bowles promised that he would not "let prices stand in the way of production" but said price increases should be used very sparingly — "only when absolutely essential."

Many wage boosts could be absorbed by employers, he stated.

Porter Will Hold Price Line

His successor as OPA chief, Paul A. Porter, when asked at news conference whether he intended to hold a firm price line, declared: "I sure do. There'll be no cafeteria line price increases." Porter disclosed that he would resign from his chairmanship of the Federal Communications Commission.

When price ceiling boosts are necessary to compensate for federally-approved wage increases, Bowles told newsmen, they will be made promptly, "so that businessmen can move ahead with confidence that costs will be held stable."

Asked whether the administration still had a "hold-the-line" policy in view of the steel price boost and the new wage-price formula, the president replied affirmatively. Later, letting reporters quote him, he added:

"This is not a new line. It is a bulge in the old line. You've heard of a bulge in the military sense. It will be no breakthrough."

Bowles has agreed to the entire arrangement, along with all others present at yesterday's final wage-price strategy conference, Mr. Truman declared.

Mr. Truman said United States Steel had been notified of the $5 increase, and Snyder said it would apply to all wages as well as carbon steel. The president added he had been expecting a settlement for two weeks.

One Man Is Killed, Another Injured In Road Crash

Car Hits Power Pole Four and a Half Miles North of Bedford

One young man was killed and another critically injured when the automobile in which they were riding hit a power pole near Cessna, Pa., about four and one-half miles north of Bedford, Pa., at 10:10 p. m., yesterday.

Pennsylvania Motor Police said the injured man is in the army and that his address has not been determined. They said the dead man, whose home is near Johnstown, Pa., carried an army discharge paper but might have re-enlisted. Officers said that because of military regulations they cannot release the names of the men until the next of kin have been notified.

Trooper George Finnish said the car evidently was traveling at a high rate of speed toward Altoona, Pa., and was unable to make a short curve a short distance south of Cessna.

From all indications, the car rolled on the curve, broke off the power pole and several guard posts around the pole.

The dead man was caught between a door and the side of the car, the injured man was in the car, Finnish said.

Men at a tavern located about 300 yards from the wreck scene heard the crash and removed the injured man from the car to rush him to a hospital.

State police said when the car broke off the power pole, electricity for miles around was disrupted for a short time.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb. 15 (AP)—Arthur (Pete) Smith announced today he had resigned as football line coach at Milwaukee Marquette university to enter the restaurant business here.

Truman Declares

If Pauley offered to withdraw "to save the president from embarrassment," he said, "I would not accept it."

Mr. Truman does not think he will be embarrassed.

Does he expect the Senate to confirm the nomination?

Yes, he does.

Then the president went on to assert that Pauley was a good man, that he made the best deal with Germany and Japan on the Allied Reparations Commission that ever was made for this country.

A reporter observed that a reparations deal with Japan appeared to be news and wanted to know about it. Mr. Truman said he did not think he could tell about it now.

One laugh came when a reporter asked whether Mr. Truman would appoint Ickes to some other post and the chief executive replied with: "What do you think?"

Asked about a dispatch from Thomas Reynolds, the Chicago Sun reporting a White House conference at which Mr. Truman was reported to have said that he does not seek the presidency in 1948, the chief executive said that the first time he ever heard of it was when he saw what Mr. Reynolds wrote.

Then the president was pressed to say whether he would run in 1948, and amid laughter he asked his questioner whether he was not a little nervous. He added that he has not thought about it.

Hopes of Ending

wage-price policy and described the talks as "very satisfactory."

The Addes request for international UAW sanction of the Ben-dix strike followed what Addes termed a breakdown in negotiations.

Bendix officials, he said, "flatly refused to discuss in any manner the question of a general wage increase," and asked to return negotiations to a local plant level.

If called, Addes said, the walkout would affect between 12,000 and 15,000 Bendix workers in Detroit and Orono, Mich.; Norwood, Mass.; Elmira, N. Y.; South Bend, Ind., and Hollywood, Calif.

A Bendix spokesman declared the union represents only about 8,000 workers in six of the company's fifteen divisions, and is demanding a thirty per cent wage increase in all divisions. No compromise has been suggested by the union, he said, and the company has made no specific pay offers.

"Collapse" Is Denied

Marvin A. Heidt, director of Bendix industrial relations, denied that negotiations "collapsed," terming Addes' statement an evasion of a union commitment.

Heidt said that at today's bargaining session Addes agreed to referral of negotiations back to the divisional level. Those divisions, he added, "are ready and willing to negotiate."

Discussing the GM-UAW negotiations, Dewey said "I think we're a little closer together on a meeting of minds on various issues." Both Wilson and Thomas said they would head their delegations until an agreement is reached, according to the mediator.

For the first time since he entered the dispute January 29, Dewey said, he plans to stay in Detroit over the weekend. He spent the past two weekends in conferences with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach in Washington.

gaging in a long-distance debate with Peron.

He said that he would not comment on the statement of any foreign presidential candidate, but asserted:

There is nothing in State department records to show that any espionage charge ever was filed by any government against Gen. Lang, and

There is no information to indicate that Braden ever participated in any "shakedown" of Argentines for political purposes and in return for removing them from the so-called United States "black list."

Local State Guard Companies To Be Inspected Feb. 27

The two local state guard units, Company C commanded by Capt. Thomas F. Conlon and Company D, commanded by Captain Lester B. Johnson, have been notified to be ready for a federal inspection February 27.

Lt. Col. C. O. Diehl, Hagerstown, commander of the Eighth Battalion Maryland State Guard, has instructed local units that all equipment and personnel must be ready for the inspection. Col. Diehl, member of his staff and regular army officers, will be here on February 27 at 2 p. m. At that time the equipment of Company C will be checked and at 4 p. m. the equipment of Company D will be inspected. Members of the two units will undergo regular inspection on the state armory drill floor at 7:30 p. m.

Capt. Conlon said yesterday that enlistments are being accepted in the guard units, as both companies here are below table of organization strength.

Navy Recruiter To Visit Towns in Two Counties

Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, traveling recruiter from the local navy recruiting office will interview applicants for enlistment in Oakland, February 21; Prossburg, February 28; and in Westernport, March 1. Interviews will be conducted at the post office in each of the three communities from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m. Schrader says, after March 1, he expects to visit Westernport regularly each Friday.

The recruiter said that radio technicians, electronic technicians and aviation radio technicians discharged from the navy regardless of age, may now apply for re-enlistment in the regular navy.

Cold Weather Hits This Area

March winds blew in February here yesterday, as the weather man continued to blow a cold blast over the Tri-State area and mercury continued its nose-dive.

At midnight, temperatures had dropped to 19 above zero in the city and lower readings were indicated before morning. At Deal, Pa., thermometer stood at 10 above zero at midnight. The air was clear, winds were brisk and there was an inch or two of snow on the ground. At Thomas, W. Va., mercury stood at 14 above with three inches of snow on the ground. Weather was clear and no new snow was falling anywhere in the area.

Floods and Fire Give Him Real Housing Crisis

FREDERICK, Md., (AP)—If you think you have housing troubles, listen to the woes of Stanley E. Virts.

Between flood and fire, Virts can hardly keep a roof over his head—or a floor under his feet. Since 1936, he has been made homeless four times — thrice by floods. His latest loss came when fire destroyed his rented bungalow, driving him and seven other occupants into near-zero cold.

phs. Tenn. The double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Hammond on Tuesday, January 29, at his home in Dyersburg, Tenn.

The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Graves, of Dyersburg. The bride wore a light pink gown with flower hat and corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. Graves was attired in a light green gown with pink gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Oakland high school and of South Baltimore School of Nursing.

The bridegroom was discharged from the army soon after his return to the states. He plans to return to Southwestern university in Memphis, Tenn., where he was a student before entering the service in 1943. The couple will r-side in Memphis.

Wed in Parsonage

The marriage of Miss Constance Louise Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Woods, Altamont, to Howard R. Durst, Swanton, has been announced. The ceremony was performed February 9 by Dr. Denver C. Picken, Methodist pastor, at the parsonage in Oakland.

The bride was attired in a powder blue street length dress, with which she wore black accessories. A corsage of white gardenias completed her costume. Miss Mary Mae Weeks was maid of honor and was attired in a pink dress with blue accessories and wore a corsage of white roses. Pvt. Glen E. Woods, Camp Pickett, Va., brother of the bride, served as best man.

A wedding reception was held at the bride's home. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Durst will reside with her parents.

Men Still Must Carry Draft Card

Men discharged from military service are required by law to report to their draft boards within ten days after date of discharge, and all male citizens between the ages of 16 and 65 are still required to carry a draft registration card. Alvin E. Yaste, clerk of Draft board No. 3, said yesterday.

Yaste called attention to the fact that a number of men are failing to report when discharged, and many people do not seem to realize that Registration Certificate Form 2, is still required to be in the possession of all males.

After discharge, unless members of the reserve, all men upon becoming civilians may either report in person to their own draft board, or may report by mail. If this is not convenient, they may report to any draft board and complete Form 14.

There are a number of instances recently, where men have been involved in auto wrecks, or other mishaps which have come to the attention of the police. The individuals, in many cases did not have the necessary draft cards in their possession and were held by police until draft registration records could be checked. It is a simple matter, Yaste concluded, to have the right kind of card in one's possession, and having the card may save time and embarrassment.

Ex-Marine "Cashes In"

Carl Walter Grim Pays Fine of $101.45

Elmer R. Riffe, Baltimore Pike, entered a plea of guilty in trial magistrates court yesterday to a charge of driving without lights, but Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., suspended the fine, and assessed the motorist seventy-five cents costs, in view of the circumstances.

State Trooper Milton Hart arrested Riffe for driving along the highway without lights. The motorist explained he was driving along when his lights went out and as he was near a service station decided to proceed on and have them repaired. The officer said Riffe was driving very carefully.

Benjamin S. Kalfer of Maryland, avenue paid a fine of $5 and seventy-five cents costs when he entered a plea of reckless driving on Route 230 near Bowling Green. He was arrested by Trooper Hart.

Carl Walter Grim of Springfield, W. Va., paid fine and costs of $101.45 after being convicted of a drunken driving charge. He was found not guilty on a charge of reckless driving. State Trooper Harold L. B. sore arrested Grim near Corriganville.

Signal Corps Week

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin has proclaimed March 3 to 9 as Signal Corps week in Baltimore, honoring the eighty-third anniversary of the signal corps. He has requested that business and labor organizations, schools, civic groups and various agencies have special ceremonies.

New Quarters Set For Beauty School

Mrs. Georgia Robertson secured an occupancy permit in the city engineer's office Thursday to use four rooms on the first floor of a building at 164 North Mechanic street for her academy of beauty culture.

Mrs. Robertson said that she expects to move the school from its present location at 40 North Liberty street early next week, as soon as the new quarters are prepared for use. Miss Nina Fey will continue as instructor of the seventeen students enrolled in the school. The academy was opened last October.

The North Mechanic street building was formerly occupied as a residence, and is located in a business zoning district. The owner is Mrs. Henry R. Neumann, Baltimore Pike.

Mrs. Robertson has operated a beauty shop at 31 South Centre street since 1933.

The permit was secured in her name by her husband, Frank L. Robertson.

An occupancy permit has been denied by the city engineer when E. M. Lewis and E. J. Mullinari, both of LaVale Inn, sought permission to use the first floor of a two-story building at 48 Humbird street as

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Kathleen Raines vs. William Carl Raines, 1945 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Plaintiff A. VIMCLO MATRIMO 1 from the Defendant.

The bill states that they were married on the 15th day of October, 1934, and that the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff on the 4th day of December, 1935. Plaintiff has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past prior to the bringing of this suit and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year prior to the bringing of this action, and the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and the Plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the Defendant and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 7th day of February, 1946, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, sitting in equity, ordered that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks on or before the 12th day of March, 1946, giving notice to said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to appear in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 26th day of March, 1946, to show cause, if any he might have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Memorandum of Agreement

BETWEEN THE WEST VIRGINIA PULP and PAPER COMPANY AND THE UNITED PAPERWORKERS of AMERICA---CIO

Under provision of article IV, section 8 of articles of agreement between the United Paperworkers of America CIO, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, dated August 20, 1945, the Company and the Negotiating Committee of the Union agreed at Cumberland, Md., on February 11, 1946, upon a general wage increase of twelve cents (12c) per hour to all hourly paid employees. It is further agreed that this increase shall become effective at each mill on the payroll date nearest to the date that the National Office of the United Paperworkers of America — CIO, telegraphs the New York office of the Company that the increase has been ratified by the National Union.

The Union agrees to extend full and complete cooperation in the reduction of the scheduled work week for the employees to forty hours (40) as rapidly as possible. The Union agrees to cooperate with the Company in effecting the change-over by encouraging regular attendance and discouraging disputes over work schedules designed to cause the working or payment of unnecessary overtime.

As it is obvious that the productivity of the employees is essential, the Union will make every effort to cooperate in the furthering of efficient operation and the screening of grievances.

The Company and the Union agree that harmonious and cooperative relations are mutually advantageous and will renew their effort to discourage any feelings of ill-will and suspicion and will work together to build good relations.

In Memoriam

In memory of our son, Ronald Keescker,
who died in Italy, two years ago, Febru-

Another year has gone, dear Ronald,
Since you were put away.
Far from Mother's hand to soothe you,
As you laid in pain that day.

The source of sorrow is not dried,
Nor stays the stream of tears,
But winds on weeping silently,
Down those two sad years.

Badly missed by Mother,

Alexander Accepts Tentatively Offer To Direct Trade School for Vets

Salary Holds Up Full Acceptance; USES, Amvets and VA Assure Complete Co-operation

Kopp Thursday offered Alexander a salary of around $5,000 on a twelve-month basis, and the latter said last night that the only matter holding up his full acceptance of the directorship is salary. Alexander added that he and Kopp are "not far apart" in their salary talks.

He said he believes the program will be very interesting and that he will be assuming the directorship if final arrangements can be made more because of the interest involved and the good the school will do than for salary, but he said, salary must be considered.

Not Diversified Enough. Previously, Alexander had offered a proposed plan to operate a trade school at the tool and die plant, but the Veterans Administration said the proposal was not acceptable because the program was not sufficiently diversified and that the proposed salaries for instructors were too high.

After that information was conveyed to Alexander by Kopp at a meeting on Thursday, Kopp made a counter offer under which Alexander would become director of a countywide program offering a more diversified course of study than originally contemplated, with a reduction in the director's salary of about $5,000. Instructors would be paid $3,000.

Alexander said yesterday that he believes the proposed salary for instructors will be satisfactory to them unless they are required to work at night, for which they would be paid additional money.

Meet Next Week. He added that he and three possible instructors, A. R. Douglas, R. J. Moore and J. A. Collins, will meet with Kopp next week, probably on Tuesday, if that day is suitable to the school superintendent.

Alexander stated that he would like to have the matter straightened out by the first of the month, pointing out that he would like to be in a position by that time to begin the trade school program with some trainees.

Facilities probably will be available by the first of the month to begin instruction in tool and die making, machinist's trades, mechanical drafting and tool and machine designing, Alexander said, although instruction in some other courses could not be started that soon.

Alexander and his three partners, Douglas, Moore and Collins, presently operate the Allegany Tool and Die Company in the old NYA work shop on Poca street, and Alexander said if trade school arrangements are not completed he will continue the tool and die plant at another location.

Just how fast the program can be started depends somewhat on the speed with which H. M. James, supervisor of vocational education in the state department of education, can submit a tentative program outline to be taught to the Veterans Administration for approval. Alexander explained, adding, however, that James is anxious to see the program get underway and probably will lose no time in submitting a training schedule to the Veterans Administration.

Assured of Co-operation. Before notifying Kopp of his tentative acceptance of the offer, Alexander said he conferred with Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local office of the United States Employment Service, James E. Wilk, commander of the local Amvets post, and William Burns, Veterans Administration representative here, and was assured of the one hundred per cent co-operation in the program of them and their organizations.

operating the trade school program, Alexander said he would have to work closely with the USES, the Amvets and the Veterans Administration office here, and believes that the program can be operated much more successfully with their co-operation than without it.

Schusterman Wins In Textile Union Run Off Election

Arthur Schusterman was elected recording secretary of Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, according to the final count in the run-off election to determine five positions in the local textile union.

Unless the count is challenged, the run off would also place in office Lewis Chaney as member of the executive board and John Mitchell, Charles Wahl and Carlos Harris to the board of trustees.

The results are not final, an election official said, since results are not officially announced until a forty-eight hour waiting period, in which candidates may contest results, is completed.

The standing of candidates was given in a list posted on the door of union headquarters.

Recording secretary—William Bill Price, 2; Arthur Schusterman, 1; Executive board—Lewis Chaney, 1; William Hyde, 2.

Board of trustees—(three to be elected) Carlos Harris, 3; George Layman, 6; John Mitchell, 1; Charles H. Smith, 4; Edwin Van-Meter, 3; and Charles Wahl, 2.

Balloting was completed early yesterday morning and the election committee met yesterday, completing the count early last evening.

Army Will Open Branch Recruiting Office in Keyser

St. Malcolin D. McDonald, of the local army recruiting office has been assigned to open a recruiting branch in Keyser, W. Va. Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, local recruiter said yesterday.

The office will be adjacent to the United States Employment Service headquarters in Keyser.

The new army display, which has been in the window here all week, will be moved to Keyser for exhibition today, Capt. Bairstow stated.

$50,000 Damages Asked by Father Of Burned Boy

James Detrick, 7, Was Badly Injured when Cowboy Suit Ignited

The father of a 7-year-old boy who was badly burned December 26, 1944, when the cowboy suit he was wearing caught fire, yesterday filed suit in circuit court asking $50,000 damages from Lou's Auto Stores from whom the suit allegedly was purchased.

The boy, James E. Detrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Edmond Detrick, 20 Potomac street, Ridgeley, W. Va., is still a patient in Memorial hospital where he is being treated for the burns he suffered.

Docketed by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., attorneys for the boy's father, the suit was filed against Lou's P. Lutz and Ida K. Lutz, his wife, trading as Lou's Auto Stores.

Breach of Implied Warranty. Attorneys for the plaintiff said the defendants "impliedly warranted" that the cowboy suits offered to the general public and designed for children's wear were "non-flammable and free from all harmful ingredients."

The defendants, by selling the suits, the plaintiff's attorneys stated, "impliedly warranted" that they were clean, free from all harmful ingredients, safe and fit for the use for which they were intended.

They added that injuries suffered by the boy were the "direct breach of the implied warranty made by the defendants."

Mrs. Dorothy E. Detrick, the boy's mother, bought two cowboy suits at the defendants' Baltimore street store on December 23, 1944, according to the suit, which adds that the boy was wearing one of the suits two days later when a "spark jumped from a fire and struck" him. He was "immediately caught up in flames," his father's attorneys say, and "suffered severe and painful burns."

As a result of the burns, the attorneys state, large portions of the boy's skin had to be grafted, his leg and arm muscles are injured, he has been unable to walk since the date of the accident, he has been confined to a hospital, he has been unable to attend school and his injuries are permanent.

A damage action by titling was filed against another Cumberland store in January in circuit court by Leslie Cutler, father of Wayne Cutler, Frostburg, another boy who was burned last year when his cowboy suit ignited.

The Cutler boy was confined to Miners hospital, Frostburg, for several months.

Fugitive Nabbed Here To Be Tried In Somerset Today

State Police Find Pistol under Front Seat of Wrecked Car

Nabbed here early yesterday morning on an anonymous telephone tip, Thomas Halle, 27, a fugitive from Pennsylvania authorities, was turned over to Constable E. D. Peck, Somerset, Pa., last night and he given a hearing in Somerset today on three charges. Maryland State Police said last night.

Originally arrested on a charge of non-support of his wife and child, Halle escaped from Constable Victor Cecil at Wellersburg Tuesday after threatening the officer with a gun, and Maryland officers said he will be tried today on charges of threatening an officer with a weapon and violating a firearms act by carrying an unlicensed revolver as well as the non-support charge.

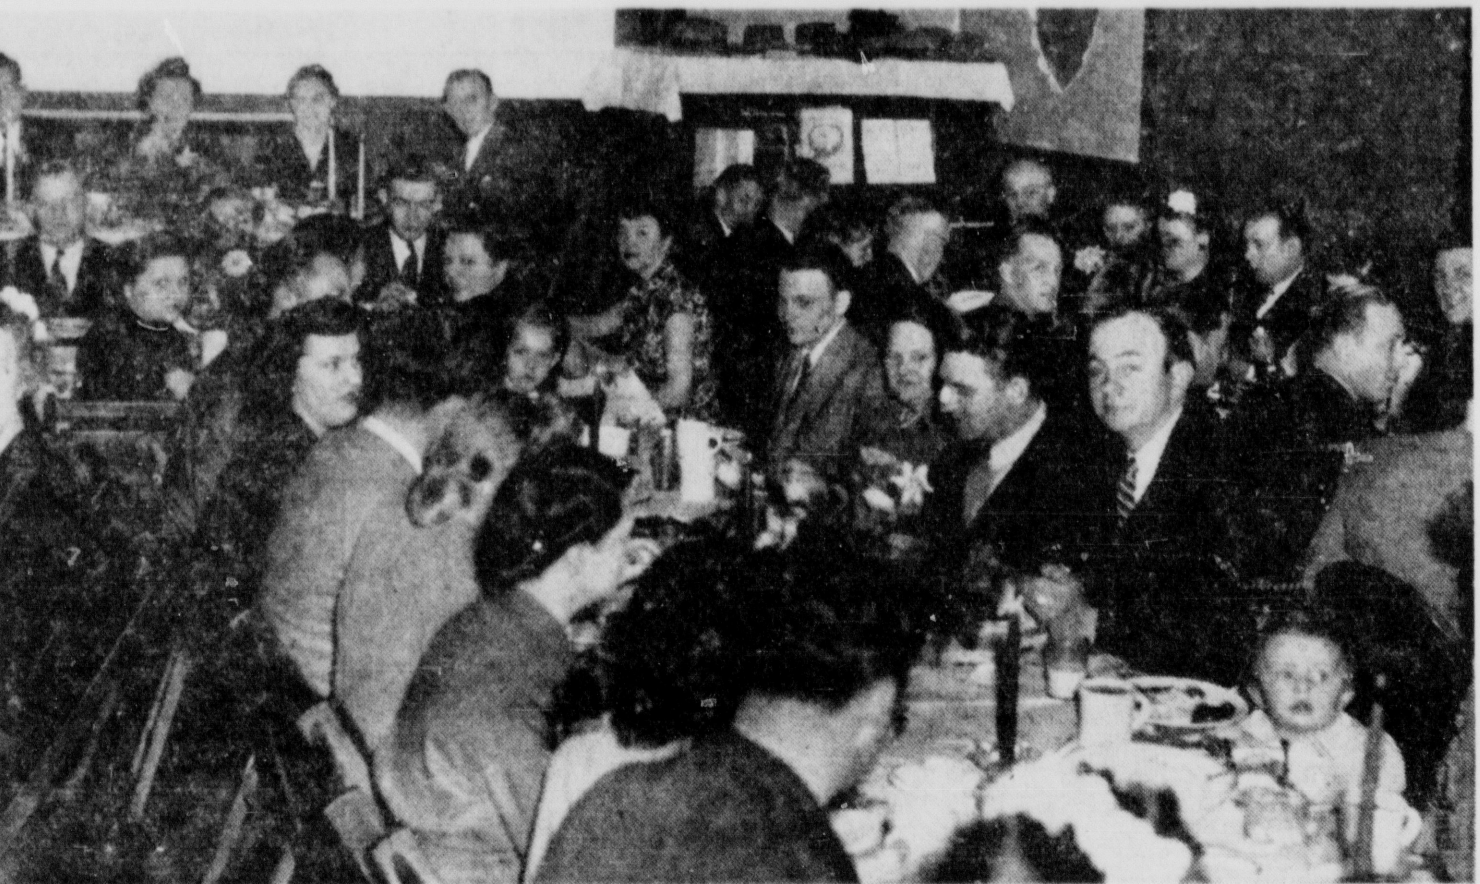

According to state police here, Halle's car was found wrecked on Route 40, near Crystal park, Wednesday afternoon, and yesterday State Troopers Milton G. Hart and Glen D. Polk found the revolver under the front seat of the machine while searching the vehicle at a local garage.

They said the weapon was rusty and not loaded, and that it was turned over to Pennsylvania officers.

Halle was arrested in an apartment adjoining the Astor Cab Company office, South Mechanic street, at 2 a. m., yesterday after the anonymous telephone tip was received at police headquarters.

State Troopers Harry Holsinger and Harold Basore and Lt. James E. Van of the city police, wearing the apartment, knocked on the door and Halle answered "What do you want me for?" he queried. Later he admitted his identity.

After Halle was taken into custody in Pennsylvania he escaped from Constable Cecil by a ruse. He asked the officer to permit him to drive his car into a garage in the rear of his home in Wellersburg, but instead of going into the garage he drove off in the machine after threatening the officer with a gun, police said.

HONOR RETURNING SERVICEMEN—Wives, parents, children and friends of returned servicemen of the congregation of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church, Centre and Smith streets, assembled Thursday night at the church for a dinner in honor of the veterans. The Rev. Philip C. Priester, pastor, was principal speaker. The dinner was prepared and served by members of the church's Ladies Aid Society. The church had sixty-two members of its congregation in service and only fifteen remain to be discharged. Part of the crowd at the dinner is shown in the above picture.

Chest Executive Committee Hears Financial Report

The executive committee of the Cumberland Community Chest held its regular monthly meeting last night in the chest office and discussed financial reports and other matters pertaining to the chest and its agencies. Henry C. Swearingen, newly elected president, presided.

According to Mrs. Emma Everstine, treasurer, receipts from pledges and subscriptions of the last Community Chest campaign collected up to February 1, amount to $77,608.75, or seventy-eight percent of the total pledged in the campaign. The drive was held in November of last year, as the combined National War Fund and Community Chest drive.

The National War Fund has already been paid $16,137, half of its allocated amount, it was reported. Regular monthly allotments to the several chest agencies have been paid up to date and the chest shows a cash balance of $6,346.83.

Swearingen stated that all chest agencies are in a healthful cash position, and are carrying out their programs in a satisfactory manner.

A report on the 1944-45 campaign, shows that a total of $121,394.96 has been paid into the National War Fund and Community Chest. This is ninety-four percent of the total pledged and was sufficient to pay in full, the amounts allocated to the Community Chest, Red Cross and National War Fund.

The executive committee recommended that regular monthly meetings of the executives of chest agencies be resumed. Such meetings had been held during the greater part of last year, and proved helpful toward integrating programs of the agencies, thus improving community service. The first meeting in the new series will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. in the chest office.

Members of the executive committee besides Swearingen and Mrs. Everstine, are Harold W. Smith, secretary, Mrs. William A. Douglas, Roy W. Eves, Clarence Lippel, Charles L. Kopp, Earl C. Robertson and Mrs. Anne B. Everline, office secretary.

Woman Is Injured When PE Truck And Car Collide

Mrs. Gladys Mock, 34, wife of S. G. Mock, 19 Grand avenue, was in a "fair" condition last evening in Allegany hospital where she was admitted for treatment of possible neck and back injuries suffered in a car-truck collision at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets yesterday morning at 11:15 o'clock.

Attaches added Mrs. Mock was resting comfortably and said results of X-rays, taken to determine extent of injury, were not yet available.

Mrs. Mock said a Potomac Edison service truck crashed against the rear of the car in which she was riding with her husband.

Third Car Undamaged. The PE truck, used for the bus department here, was driven by J. Loar, it was reported.

The crash occurred shortly after the walk light changed. A third car, driven by James E. Murphy, 218 Arch street, escaped damage when the automobile driven by Mock was knocked against it.

Forest Fisher, 59, Route 2, Baltimore pike, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 2 p. m. for a cut on the left hand. The Queen City driver told attaches he fell while carrying some milk bottles.

Woman Is Hurt. Mrs. Janet Pindley, 27, 216 Polk street, was treated in the same hospital at 2:05 p. m. for a laceration of the third finger of the left hand. She told attaches her finger was caught while she was grinding meat at her home.

Charles H. Johnson, 49, 148 Frederick street, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday morning for a deep laceration of the right hand suffered, he told attaches, when his hand was caught in an exhaust fan while he was painting.

Esther Hetrick, 36, 723 Pennsylvania avenue, was treated in the same hospital for a fractured right foot suffered, attaches were told, in a fall.

Industrial Life Insurance History Is Outlined by George M. Martin

"Industrial life insurance, that form of insurance carried by nearly eight million policy-holders in the United States, represents one of the greatest investments in individual security ever known in the world of economics," George M. Martin, guest speaker told members of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association last night.

Martin, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company here, addressed the local insurance men and their wives at a dinner meeting of the association in St. Mark's Reformed church, Park and Harrison streets. He was introduced by Henry K. Duke, LaVale, president and toastmaster.

The speaker outlined briefly a history of industrial insurance and told how it began to be developed in this country late in the last century, as a means of making life insurance possible for more people. This form of insurance, which is different from ordinary insurance primarily in the way premiums are paid, was first known in Europe, particularly England, a hundred years ago. It came into being about 1870 in the United States, the speaker said, and grew out of such things as "Friendly Societies," "Guilds" and "Insurance Associations."

These, he said, were the forerunners of the modern industrial insurance, but were not too successful. "Finally," Martin said, "industrial insurance with premiums paid by the week, or by the month, began to grow popular, and became increasingly popular because agents were assigned to go around each week, or each month, and collect premiums. Out of this plan," he explained, "has grown one of the greatest business enterprises and public services known today."

"Industrial life insurance has found it necessary," the speaker asserted, "to constantly justify itself on its merits, with the policy holder, the government and with the salesmen." As a result, industrial policies now contain clauses such as disability benefits, double indemnity, extended insurance, cash reserve and in many cases, participation in company earnings, he outlined.

"This field of life insurance," the speaker stated, has made it possible for sixty per cent of the families in America to carry life insurance on a basis which they can afford, and which would not be possible if premiums were payable only on an annual, semi-annual or monthly basis."

For more than a quarter century, Martin said, he has been active in Life Underwriter Associations. He urged the local group to make an effort to interest all insurance men in the city into joining the organization and cited some of the benefits.

"The Life Underwriters Association is to the insurance business, what the bar association is to the legal profession, and the medical association is to the medical profession," Martin added. The organization places emphasis upon friendly fellowship and co-operation among insurance men, helps develop professional character, and serves as a medium by which ideas can be exchanged, he said. In addition, the association has performed great public service in successfully defeating or bringing about defeat of "vicious legislation," which might have greatly depreciated the insurance premium dollar, he explained.

Albert H. Macy, Braddock road, reported on publicity and L. M. Robinson, LaVale, reported on membership. Duke announced that another meeting will be held next month.

Miss Mary Murray Nominated for Press Association Office

Announcement has been made of the nomination of Miss Mary E. Murray, advisor of the Alcholi Mirror of Allegany high school, as secretary-treasurer of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Election of officers of the association will take place at the twenty-second annual CSPS convention to be held in New York March 20-23.

Miss Murray, who received the Gold Key award in 1943 for outstanding service to the school press, has contributed articles to the School Press Review, the Convention by Mail and the Journalism Syllabus, publications of the Columbia Press Association.

The board of trustees and the executive board of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, will hold a special meeting today at 1 p. m. at post headquarters, 14 Frederick street, according to James C. Wilt, commander.

Plans for a new post home will be discussed, and arrangements will be made for state officers to attend a meeting in Washington Sunday, February 24.

Carpenters Union Accepts Ex-GI's As Apprentices

Program Will Ease Labor Situation when Building Gets Under Way

The acceptance of eleven former servicemen as apprentices of Local 1024, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, AFL, as part of the local's expansion for the peacetime building program in this area, is one of the bright spots in the construction industry here.

The importance of the apprentice program may be best realized on its long term basis since the average age of the 200 members of the local is approximately fifty years.

P. Patrick Allender, business agent of the local, reported the project has been somewhat slowed down by the lack of materials for construction here, but added that the addition of apprentices will be accelerated as the building program begins to get under way.

Allender said the recently appointed ex-GIs include Harry C. Blubaugh, Eugene R. McGill, William E. Goss, Arthur E. Schade, Robert W. Whisner, Francis E. Rinker, George Brown and Frederick Goss, who was appointed yesterday. One of the group, Gerald W. Grady, is a disabled veteran.

The men were accepted into the carpenters' union under a ruling which provides for the waiving of initiation fees for former servicemen who begin work within a year after their separation from the armed forces.

The new apprentices are now being employed by six contractors of this area. Under the GI Bill of Rights, Allender explained, the contractors pays the apprentice at the prevailing apprentice rate and the Veterans Administration pays additional wages to equal the journeyman's rate, providing the sum is not over specified amounts.

Service men Return. The labor situation among carpenters here has been eased also by the return of about half of the forty-five Local 1024 men serving in the armed forces. Two members of the local who were apprentice carpenters have returned from service recently.

The international carpenters union allows one apprentice for every two journeymen carpenters employed by any contractor and one additional beginner for each additional five carpenters.

Local 1024 represents Allegany and Garrett county in Maryland and Mineral county and the Martinsburg area in West Virginia.

A dinner for members of the Engineering Club of Cumberland will be held at 6:30 o'clock, with Dr. Thomas as special guest, Robert McGibbon, an engineer at the Celanese Corporation of America, president of the club, will preside. Raymond T. Bete is chairman of the program committee.

Conlon Is Invited To Conference On Vets' Affairs

Thomas F. Conlon, Maryland Veterans Commission deputy state service officer, said yesterday that he has been invited to attend a conference on veterans affairs in Washington, D. C., on February 25. The conference, sponsored by the National Rehabilitation Committee of the American Legion, is a four-day affair and will be held in the Statler hotel.

Such subjects as insurance, hospital care, claims, claim appeals and guardianship are to be discussed at the meetings. The purpose of the conference is to review and implement widespread programs affecting veterans, Conlon stated.

Wind Lifts Porch Roof from Home In Bowman's Addition

High wind here early yesterday morning lifted the front porch roof of the Thomas home in Bowman's addition and laid it upon the roof of the one story frame home, neighbors reported.

The storm also picked heavy butchering tables from the ground at another home and stacked the objects against nearby trees.

Plans for Annual Red Cross Drive Are Progressing

Much of City and County Organization Well under Way, Chairman Says

Progress is being made in the organization for the 1946 Red Cross campaign to raise $30,500, in this county, Mrs. Lee W. Withers, chapter executive secretary said yesterday.

Much of the city organization is well underway, she explained and some of the county leaders have been chosen by the planning group. William A. Lewis of Frostburg was named county chairman for the towns outside of Cumberland by Col. Randolph Millholland general chairman of the drive. Yesterday, Lewis announced several of his assistants as follows:

Mrs. Edward J. Ryan will be chairman in Frostburg, Irvin Lewis will head up the campaign in Lonaconing, Samuel Berry is chairman for Barton, Thomas McGuire, postmaster in Westernport, will be campaign chairman there.

Colin Bowers, chairman of the town council at Mt. Savage has accepted the task of organizing the campaign in Mt. Savage and vicinity, and Mrs. Clarence Thomas will lead the drive in Eckhart.

Members of the campaign committee and local leaders in the campaign organization are scheduled to meet at 4 o'clock Monday at post office building, Millholland said last night.

The Advanced Gifts committee, of which W. Earle Coby and Henry C. Swearingen are co-chairmen, will hold their first dinner meeting in the YMCA at 6 o'clock Monday evening. At that time, prospect cards and material for this group will be distributed.

Child Care Center Will Remain Open For Trial Period

School Board Will Operate after Federal Aid Ceases This Month

The Child Care center at West Side school, slated to be discontinued on February 28, will be continued for another month on a trial basis by the board of education, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

Kopp added, however, that the school will cease to operate with the assistance of federal funds on February 28.

Twelve children already have been registered for the center for the trial period and three more can be handled, the superintendent said.

He added that if enough interest is shown by the registration of twelve to fifteen more children another teacher will be added.

Monthly cost of operating the center is estimated at $300, and on this basis, Kopp says, at least fifteen mothers could enroll their children at the center, established as a means of taking care of children while mothers were engaged in war work.

Under the trial program, any preschool child above the infant age is eligible to enter the center, whether or not the mother is working. Under the federal program, only working mothers could enroll their children at the center, established as a means of taking care of children while mothers were engaged in war work.

HEADQUARTERS PANAMA CANAL DEPARTMENT—Pvt. George R. Armbruster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Armbruster, Sr., 52 Marion street, Cumberland, Maryland, has been promoted to the grade of corporal, it is announced by the Sixth air force headquarters at Albrook Field, Canal Zone.

Cpl. Armbruster is assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron Sixth Air Force, stationed at Albrook Field. He entered the army in December, 1945.

He graduated from high school in 1944, and was formerly employed by the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, Cumberland.

Dawson was discharged from the army February 10 after over two years of service as a private. He holds the Victory ribbon, Good Conduct medal, ETO ribbon, two bronze stars, the Combat Infantry badge and a Unit citation. He re-enlisted for one year, unassigned.

Teachers' Health Conference Will Be Held Today

Program for Checking Pupil Health To Be Discussed

All of the school teachers in Allegany county are expected to attend an all-day conference at Fort Hill high school today to hear a discussion of the aims and operation of a new health service in the schools of the county.

The service, a new screening method whereby an accurate and up-to-the minute check is kept of pupil health, will be conducted as an experiment in four Allegany county schools for the first time in the state.

Speakers on the morning program will be Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools; Dr. Thomas G. Ferguson, state supervisor of physical education and co-ordinator of the experiment; Dr. Edward Davens, chief, bureau of child hygiene, state department of health; Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, county health officer.

In the afternoon the teachers will hear from Richard T. Rizer, high school supervisor and assistant superintendent of schools; Miss Constance Weber, R. N., Allegany County Health Department; and Dr. Franklin.

A demonstration of a semi-annual health checkup including height and weight measurements, vision tests, audiometer tests and an oral examination will be held in the morning. Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of state dental service, will conduct the oral examination and Mrs. Edith M. Tetlock, registered nurse of the state department of health, will handle the other part of the demonstration.

Miss Anne Tennant, principal of Gephart school, will stage a demonstration of a state dental service which will present an actual classroom situation. This also will be held in the morning.

At 2:15 p. m., demonstrations of two complete physical examinations will be conducted with Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant health officer, conducting an examination of a boy, and Mrs. Virginia Harris conducting the examination of a girl for women teachers.

Alexander Accepts Tentatively Offer To Direct Trade School for Vets

Salary Holds Up Full Acceptance; USES, Amvets and VA Assure Complete Co-operation

Paul N. Alexander, one of the operators of the Allegany Tool and Die Company plant, yesterday informed Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, of his tentative acceptance of the directorship of a county-wide trade school program for veterans.

Kopp Thursday offered Alexander a salary of around $5,000 on a twelve-month basis, and the latter said last night that the only matter holding up his full acceptance of the directorship is salary. Alexander added that he and Kopp are "not far apart" in their salary talks.

He said he believes the program will be very interesting and that he will be assuming the directorship if final arrangements can be made more because of the interest involved and the good the school will do than for salary, but he said, salary must be considered.

Not Diversified Enough
Previously, Alexander had offered a proposed plan to operate a trade school at the tool and die plant, but the Veterans Administration said the proposal was not acceptable because the program was not sufficiently diversified and that the proposed salaries for instructors were too high.

After that information was conveyed to Alexander by Kopp at a meeting on Thursday, Kopp made a counter offer under which Alexander would become director of a countywide program offering a more diversified course of study than originally contemplated. In addition to the director's salary of about $5,000, instructors would be paid $3,000.

Alexander said yesterday that he believes the proposed salary for instructors will be satisfactory to them unless they are required to work at night, for which they would want to be paid additional money.

Meet Next Week
He added that he and three possible instructors, A. R. Douglas, R. J. Moore and J. A. Collins, will meet with Kopp next week, probably on Tuesday, if that day is suitable to the school superintendent.

Alexander stated that he would like to have the matter straightened out by the first of the month, pointing out that he would like to be in a position by that time to begin the trade school program with some trainees.

Facilities probably will be available by the first of the month to begin instruction in tool and die making, machinist's trades, mechanical drafting and tool and machine designing, Alexander said, although instruction in some other courses could not be started that soon.

Alexander and his three partners, Douglas, Moore and Collins, presently operate the Allegany Tool and Die Company in the old NYA shop on Back street, and Alexander said if trade school arrangements are not completed he will continue the tool and die plant at another location.

Just how fast the program can be started depends somewhat on the speed with which H. M. James, supervisor of vocational education in the state department of education, submits a tentative program on courses to be taught to the Veterans Administration for approval. Alexander explained, adding, however, that James is anxious to see the program get underway and probably will have no time in submitting a training schedule to the Veterans Administration.

Assured of Co-operation
Before notifying Kopp of his tentative acceptance of the offer, Alexander said he conferred with Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local office of the United States Employment Service, James C. Will, commander of the local Amvets post, and William Burns, Veterans Administration representative here, and was assured of the one hundred per cent co-operation in the program of them and their organizations.

In operating the trade school program, Alexander said, he would have to work closely with the USES, the Amvets and the Veterans Administration office here, and believes that the program can be operated much more successfully with their co-operation than without it.

Schusterman Wins In Textile Union Run Off Election

Arthur Schusterman was elected recording secretary of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, according to the final count in the run-off election to determine five positions in the local textile union.

Unless the count is challenged, the run-off would also place in office Lewis Chaney as member of the executive board and John Mitchell, Charles Wahl and Carlos Harris to the board of trustees.

The results are not final, an election official said, since results are not officially announced until a forty-eight hour waiting period, in which candidates may contest results, is completed.

The standing of candidates was given in a list posted on the door of union headquarters at 1215 E. 1st street.

Recording secretary—William Bill Price, 2; Arthur Schusterman, 1; Executive board—Lewis Chaney, 1; William Hyde, 2.

Board of trustees—three to be elected: Carlos Harris, 3; George Layman, 6; John Mitchell, 1; Charles H. Smith, 4; Edwin Van Meter, 5; and Charles Wahl, 2.

Balloting was completed early yesterday morning and the election committee met yesterday, completing the count early last evening.

Army Will Open Branch Recruiting Office in Keyser

Sgt. Malcolm D. McDonald, of the local army recruiting office has been assigned to open a recruiting branch in Keyser. W. Va. Capt. Laurence M. Baird, local recruiter said yesterday.

The office will be adjacent to the United States Employment Service headquarters in Keyser.

The war trophy display, which has been in Wolfe's Furniture store window here all week, will be moved to Keyser for exhibition today, Capt. Baird stated.

$50,000 Damages Asked by Father Of Burned Boy

James Detrick, 7, Was Badly Injured When Cowboy Suit Ignited

The father of a 7-year-old boy who, allegedly, burned December 26, 1944, when the cowboy suit he was wearing caught fire, yesterday filed suit in circuit court asking $50,000 damages from Lou's Auto Stores from whom the suit allegedly was purchased.

The boy, James E. Detrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Edmond Detrick, 30 Potomac street, Ridgeley, W. Va., is still a patient in Memorial hospital where he is being treated for the burns he suffered.

Breach of Implied Warranty
Attorneys for the plaintiff said the defendant "implied warranty" that the cowboy suits offered to the general public and designed for children's wear were "non-flammable and free from all harmful ingredients."

The defendants by selling the suits, the plaintiff's attorneys stated, "implied warranted" that they were clean, free from all harmful ingredients, safe to wear, and fit for the use for which they were intended.

Mrs. Dorothy E. Detrick, the boy's mother, bought two cowboy suits at the defendants' Baltimore street store on December 23, 1944, according to the suit, which adds that the boy was wearing one of the suits two days later when a "spark jumped from a fire and struck" him. He was "immediately caught up in flames," his father's attorneys say, and "suffered severe and painful burns."

Muscles Are Injured
As a result of the burns, the attorneys state, large portions of the boy's skin had to be grafted, his leg and arm muscles are injured, he has been unable to walk since the date of the accident, he has been confined to a hospital, he has injuries are permanent.

A damage action by filing was filed against another Cumberland store in January in circuit court by Leslie Cutter, father of Wayne Cutter, Frostburg, another boy who was burned last year when his cowboy suit ignited.

The Cutter boy was confined to Miners hospital, Frostburg, for several months.

Nabbed Here Early Yesterday morning on an anonymous telephone tip, Thomas Halle, 27, a fugitive from Pennsylvania authorities, was turned over to Constable E. D. Beck, Somerset, Pa., last night and will be given a hearing in Somerset today on three charges, Maryland State Police said last night.

Originally arrested on a charge of non-support of his wife and child, Halle escaped from Constable Victor Cecil at Wellersburg Tuesday after threatening the officer with a gun, and Maryland officers said he will be tried today on charges of threatening an officer with a weapon and violating a fire arms act by carrying an unlicensed revolver as well as the non-support charge.

According to state police here, Halle's car was found wrecked on Route 40 near Crystal park, Wednesday afternoon, and yesterday State Troopers Milton G. Hart and Glen D. Fink found the revolver under the front seat of the machine while searching the vehicle at a local garage.

They said the weapon was rusty and not loaded and that it was turned over to Pennsylvania officers.

Halle was arrested in an apartment adjoining the Astor Cab Company office, South Mechanic street, at 2 a. m. yesterday after the anonymous telephone tip was received at police headquarters.

State Troopers Harry Holsinger and Harold Basore and Lt. James E. Van of the city police, went to the rear of his home in Wellersburg, but instead of going into the garage, Halle drove off in the machine after threatening the officer with a gun, police said.

After Halle was taken into custody in Pennsylvania he escaped from Constable Cecil by a ruse. He asked the officer to permit him to drive his car into a garage in the rear of his home in Wellersburg, but instead of going into the garage, Halle drove off in the machine after threatening the officer with a gun, police said.

HONOR RETURNING SERVICEMEN—Wives, parents, children and friends of returned servicemen of the congregation of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church, Centre and Smith streets, assembled Thursday night at the church for a dinner in honor of the veterans. The Rev. Philip C. Priester, pastor, was principal speaker. The dinner was prepared and served by members of the church's Ladies Aid Society. The church had sixty-two members of its congregation in service and only fifteen remain to be discharged. Part of the crowd at the dinner is shown in the above picture.

The executive committee of the Cumberland Community Chest held its regular monthly meeting last night in the chest office and discussed financial reports and other matters pertaining to the chest and its agencies.

Henry C. Swearingin, newly elected president, presided. According to Mrs. Emma Everstine, treasurer, receipts from pledges and subscriptions of the last Community Chest campaign collected up to February 1, amount to $77,608.75, or seventy-eight percent of the total pledged in the campaign.

The drive was held in November of last year, as the combined National War Fund and Community Chest drive.

The National War Fund has already been paid $16,137, half of its allocated amount, it was reported. Regular monthly allotments to the several chest agencies have been paid up to date and the chest shows a cash balance of $6,346.83.

Swearingin stated that all chest agencies are in a healthy cash position, and are carrying out their programs in a satisfactory manner.

A report on the 1944-45 campaign, shows that a total of $121,394.96 has been paid into the National War Fund and Community Chest. This is ninety-four percent of the total pledged and was sufficient to pay in full, the amounts allocated to the Community Chest, Red Cross and National War Fund.

The executive committee recommended that regular monthly meetings of the executives of chest agencies be resumed. Such meetings have been held during the greater part of last year, and proved helpful toward integrating programs of the agencies, thus improving community service.

The first meeting in the new series will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. in the chest office.

Members of the executive committee besides Swearingin and Mrs. Everstine, are Harold W. Smith, secretary, Mrs. William A. Douglas, Roy W. Eves, Clarence Lippel, Charles L. Kopp, Earl C. Robertson and Mrs. Anne B. Everline, office secretary.

Woman Is Injured When PE Truck And Car Collide

Mrs. Gladys Mock, 34, wife of S. G. Mock, 19 Grand avenue, was in a "fair" condition last evening in an Allegheny hospital where she was admitted for treatment of possible neck and back injuries suffered in a car-truck collision at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets yesterday morning at 11:15 o'clock.

Attaches added Mrs. Mock was resting comfortably and said reports of X-rays, taken to determine the extent of injury, were not yet available.

Mrs. Mock said a Potomac Edison service truck crashed against the rear of the car in which she was riding with her husband.

Third Car Undamaged
The PE truck, used for the bus department here, was driven by J. Loe, it was reported.

The crash occurred shortly after the walk light changed. A third car, driven by James R. Murphy, 218 Arch street, escaped damage when the automobile driven by Mock was knocked against it.

Forest Fisher, 59, Route 2, Baltimore, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 2 p. m. for a cut on the left hand. The Queen City driver told attaches he fell while carrying some milk bottles.

Woman Is Hurt
Mrs. Janet Fidelity, 27, 216 Polk street, was treated in the same hospital at 2:05 p. m. for a laceration of the third finger of the left hand. She told attaches her finger was caught while she was grinding meat at her home.

Charles H. Johnson, 49, 148 Frederick street, was treated in Allegheny hospital yesterday morning for a deep laceration of the right hand suffered, he told attaches, when his hand was caught in an exhaust fan while he was painting.

Ether Hetrick, 36, 723 Pennsylvania avenue, was treated in the same hospital for a fractured right foot suffered, attaches were told, in a fall.

"Industrial life insurance, that form of insurance carried by nearly eighty million policy-holders in the United States, represents one of the greatest investments in individual security ever known in the world of economics," George M. Martin, guest speaker told members of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association last night.

Martin, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company here, addressed the local insurance men and their wives at a dinner meeting of the association in St. Mark's Reformed church, Park and Harrison streets. He was introduced by Henry K. Duke, LaVale, president and toastmaster.

It came into being about 1870 in the United States, the speaker said, and grew out of such things as "Friendly Societies," "Guilds" and "Associations." These featured insurance usually on a monthly payment basis, but were not too successful.

"Finally," Martin said, "industrial insurance with premiums paid by the week, or by the month, came into being. The first meeting in the new series will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. in the chest office."

Carpenters Union Accepts Ex-GI's As Apprentices

Program Will Ease Labor Situation when Building Gets under Way

The acceptance of eleven former servicemen as apprentices of Local 1024, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, AFL, as part of the local's expansion for the peacetime building program in this area, is one of the bright spots in the construction industry here.

The importance of the apprentice program may be best realized on its long term basis since the average age of the 200 members of the local is approximately fifty years.

F. Patrick Allender, business agent of the local, reported the project has been somewhat slowed down by the lack of materials for construction here, but added that the addition of apprentices will be accelerated as the building program begins to get under way.

Disabled Vet in Group
Allender said the recently appointed ex-GIs include Harry C. Blumhagen, Eugene R. McGill, William E. Cenna, Arthur E. Schade, Robert W. Whisner, Francis E. Rinker, George Brown and Frederick Goss, who was appointed yesterday. One of the group, Gerald W. Grady, is a disabled veteran.

The men were accepted into the carpenters' union under a ruling which provides for the waiving of initiation fees for former servicemen who begin work within a year after their separation from the armed forces.

The new apprentices are now being employed by six contractors of this area. Under the GI Bill of Rights, Allender explained, the contractors pay the apprentice at the prevailing apprentice rate and the Veterans Administration pays additional wages to equal the journeyman's rate, providing the sum is not over specified amounts.

Servicemen Return
The labor situation among carpenters here has been eased also by the return of about half of the forty-five Local 1024 men serving in the armed forces. Two members of the local who were apprentice carpenters have returned from service recently.

The international carpenters union allows one apprentice for the first two journeymen carpenters employed by any contractor and one additional beginner for each additional five carpenters.

Local 1024 represents Allegheny and Garrett county in Maryland and Mineral county and the Martinsburg area in West Virginia.

American Legion Will Celebrate Its Anniversary

Initiation and reception for all new members of the American Legion in the Mountain District, are being planned by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, according to Samuel A. Graham, post commander.

The event will be held in the state armory South Centre street, March 15 at 8 p. m. following a street parade. Thomas F. Conlon has been named parade marshal and letters have been sent to all Legion posts in the Mountain district by Russell C. Paupe, inviting their participation in the affair.

The ceremony will mark the twenty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the American Legion, as March 15, 1918 is the date of the original meeting in Paris, France, when the doughboys of World War I met and formed the organization.

Plans are being made, Graham said, to erect a reviewing stand for dignitaries to view the parade and for the convenience of disabled veterans unable to march. Guests of honor at the initiation will include city and county officials, a national representative of the American Legion, department officers and officers of the Mountain district.

Following the initiation ceremony there will be a buffet luncheon and dance at the armory for members of the legion and their families.

Wind Lifts Porch Roof from Home In Bowman's Addition

High wind here early yesterday morning lifted the front porch roof of the Thomas home in Bowman's addition and laid it upon the roof of the one story frame home, neighbors reported.

The wind also picked heavy butchering tables from the ground at another home and stacked the objects against nearby trees.

Much of City and County Organization Well under Way, Chairman Says

Progress is being made in the organization for the 1946 Red Cross campaign to raise $30,500, in this county, Mrs. Lee W. Withers, chapter executive secretary said yesterday.

Much of the city organization is well underway, she explained and some of the county leaders have been chosen by the planning group.

William A. Lewis of Frostburg was named county chairman for the towns outside of Cumberland by Col. Randolph Mulholland, general chairman of the drive. Yesterday, Lewis announced several of his assistants as follows:

Mrs. Edward J. Ryan will be chairman in Frostburg. Irvin Lewis will head and organize the campaign in Lonaconing. Samuel Berry is chairman for Barton. Thomas McGuire, postmaster in Westport, will be campaign chairman there.

Colin Bowers, chairman of the town council at Mt. Savage has accepted the task of organizing the campaign in Mt. Savage and vicinity, and Mrs. Clarence Thomas will lead the drive in Exeter, Va.

The Advanced Gifts committee, of which Mrs. E. E. Cobey and Henry C. Swearingin are co-chairmen, will hold their first dinner meeting in Central YMCA at 6:15 o'clock Monday evening. At that time, prospect cards and material for this group will be distributed.

Child Care Center Will Remain Open For Trial Period
The Child Care center at West Side school, slated to be discontinued on February 28, will be continued for another month on a trial basis by the board of education, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

Kopp added, however, that the school will cease to operate with the assistance of federal funds on February 28.

Twelve children already have been registered for the center for the trial period and three more can be handled, the superintendent said.

He added that if enough interest is shown by the registration of twelve to fifteen more children another teacher will be added.

Monthly cost of operating the center is estimated at $300, and on that basis, Kopp says, at least fifteen children at $5 per week will be necessary. With federal aid the cost per week for a child has been $3.

Under the trial program, any preschool child above the infant age is eligible to enter the center, whether or not the mother is working. Under the federal program, only working mothers could enroll their children at the center, established as a means of taking care of children while mothers were engaged in war work.

Teachers' Health Conference Will Be Held Today

Program for Checking Pupil Health To Be Discussed

All of the school teachers in Allegany county are expected to attend an all-day conference at Fort Hill high school today to hear a discussion of the aims and operation of a new health service in the schools of the county.

The service, a new screening method whereby an accurate and up-to-the minute check is kept of pupil health, will be conducted as an experiment in four Allegany county schools for the first time in the state.

Speakers on the morning program will be Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools; Dr. Thomas G. Ferguson, state supervisor of physical education and co-ordinator of the experiment; Dr. Edward Davens, chief, bureau of child hygiene, state department of health; Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, county health officer.

In the afternoon the teachers will hear from Richard T. Rizer, high school supervisor and assistant superintendent of schools; Miss Marion Weber, R. N., Allegheny County Health Department; and Dr. Frankston.

A demonstration of a semi-annual health checkup including weight and height measurements, vision tests, audiometer tests and an oral examination will be held in the morning. Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the state dental service, will conduct the oral examination and Mrs. Edith M. Teelock, registered nurse of the state department of health, will handle the other part of the demonstration.

Miss Anne Tennant, principal of Gephart school, will stage a demonstration of a teacher-nurse conference which will present an actual classroom situation. This also will be held in the morning.

At 2:15 p. m. demonstrations of two complete physical examinations will be conducted with Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant health officer, conducting an examination of a boy for male teachers, and Dr. Virginia Harris conducting the examination of a girl for women teachers.
